STRIKERS ARMED AND MARCHING LIKE ARMY

With a Regiment of Troops on the Ground Situation at Gillespie, Ill., is One of Great Peril.

FOREIGNERS READY FOR A BATTLE

Gillespie, Ill., March 21.—One thousand strong, armed with rifles, muskets, shotguns and revolvers and marching to the music of an Italian band, the foreign-speaking coal miners of Benld, Ill., conducted a sunrise demonstration today against their English-speaking brethren of the town of Gillespie, calling upon those who stood upon the sidewalks to get in line.

The procession came from Benld and stopped in at mine No. 1, passed through the main street of Gillespie, thence on to mine No. 3 and back to Benld.

Counselling of the older citizens and business men of Gillespie against the commission of any overt act prevented bloodshed.

Throughout the night a vigilance committee of Gillespie citizens had patrolled the streets of the town upon receipt of news that the Benld miners had started from Gillespie. The watchers warned every one to get off the streets.

Trouble Seemed Imminent.

Many Gillespie citizens and miners were stirring when they first heard the music of the marchers. Everyone was armed. Some persons sought refuge in the rooms above the store buildings along the main street, declaring they would shoot if the marchers came into town, but the procession passed through the town without a shot being fired.

An hour later Col. E. J. Lang, commanding the Fifth regiment, Illinois National Guard, arrived from Springfield on an interurban car and took charge of the situation. The Effingham and Paris companies were the first to arrive of the troops ordered out at 1:30 o'clock this morning by Governor Deneen. The other commands arrived before 3 o'clock, nearly all of them coming on the interurban line from Springfield.

Will Disarm Strikers.

Col. Lang's plan is to march his troops from Gillespie to Benld, two and one-half miles by wagon road, and disarm the belligerents, many of whom are in a disagreeable temper. If necessary Col. Lang is prepared to proclaim martial law in Benld to enforce his plans for quelling the disturbance. Citizens of Gillespie insist there will be bloodshed in Benld when the troops attempt to disarm the foreigners.

Three months ago John P. Reece came to Gillespie from Iowa to take the superintendency of the Superior Coal company's properties, succeeding J. W. Miller, who was killed in the traction wreck in Benld on Oct. 4 last, when forty persons lost their lives.

Superintendent Reece inaugurated several changes not favorably received by the foreign element among the miners. The climax was reached ten days ago when ninety men were discharged from the mines for improperly loading cars. It was charged that the miners were loading their cars light as a reprisal for the superintendent's action in putting in mine No. 1 an additional machine with which he hoped to bring the tonnage up to capacity.

Ordered Men Back to Work.

The state officers of the United Mine Workers of Illinois ruled against a strike which was inaugurated and ordered the men back to work.

When the whistle blew for work in mine No. 1 yesterday morning, however, the American miners were prevented from going to work by 500 foreigners who marched from Benld and defied the local authorities. Several fights occurred and B. F. Crawford was injured, being struck with a club.

In view of reports that the foreigners were preparing to march upon Gillespie and apply the torch the citizens in a meeting directed an appeal to Governor Deneen for aid. Scarcely a person in the 2,400 population of Gillespie slept last night.

Some Shots Were Fired.

LIMANTOUR IS HELD IN DOUBT

His Interview in Mexico City Gives Pain to Insurrectos.

HAD LOOKED FOR FRIENDLY WORD

Madero and Orozco Joining Forces for an Attack on Juarez.

El Paso, Texas, March 21.—Finance Minister Limantour's remarks in Mexico City disavowing the statement that he was the bearer of conditions for the establishment of peace and his reference to some of the revolutionary demands as "absurdities" created perplexity among the insurrecto leaders here today. It was declared that Senor Limantour's expressions were likely to have a disquieting effect upon the insurrectos.

Senor Gonzales Garza, insurrecto secretary of state, expressed the hope early in the day that further advices would put Limantour in a much more friendly attitude toward the insurrectos.

A newspaper correspondent just back from a tour of Topic, Sonora and Sinaloa, declares there are at least seven thousand rebels in the field in the three states. The rebel forces comprise the poorest and wealthiest classes and no Americans are among them.

UNITING FOR ATTACK.

El Paso, Tex., March 21.—That Francisco I. Madero with 1,000 insurrectos operating south of Casas Grandes and Gen. Orozco with 300 men are arranging their forces with the intention of making a decisive attack in case peace negotiations fail was announced in insurrecto circles today. "The fact that Minister Limantour is in Mexico City with peace proposals has not induced us to call a halt in our actions," said Senor Gonzales Garza, insurrecto secretary of state. Several couriers bearing word to Madero of Limantour's arrival at Mexico City and a full report of the proceedings in New York between the insurrecto representatives and Limantour are known to have crossed the Rio Grande before daylight today on their way to the revolutionary leader.

DO NOT LOOK FOR PEACE.

San Antonio, Texas, March 21.—Members of the local junta of the revolutionists do not believe that Finance Minister Limantour will be able to effect a peace agreement with Diaz if he would. The junta expects American intervention in Mexico within a week. They say Diaz is too proud and dictatorial to accept any proposition toward peace that would be accepted by the rebels.

At the army camp there is no perceptible change, the men and officers still holding that air of expectancy that has characterized the atmosphere of the camp for the past several days. Bearing out the assertion that maneuvers only are intended it is given out that General Smith will take the field tomorrow with the first brigade and will make a practice march to Leon Springs for target practice.

NEELEY'S SLAYER ON TRIAL.

Murder Case Is Called in Independence, Kas., and Will Take Some Weeks.

Independence, Kas., March 21.—When the trial of A. A. Truskett, a wealthy business man of Caney, Kas., charged with killing J. D. S. Neeley, banker and oil man of Lima, O., at Caney January 7 last, was resumed today there was little chance of getting a jury. Owing to the prominence of the defendant it is difficult to secure competent jurors.

Several days will probably be required. In his examination of veniremen the state attorney asked each man if a person pretending to be a mule buyer had approached them. The defense also asked each venireman if a man representing himself as a lease-taker had inquired their opinions of the guilt of the defendant.

JACK-THE-HUGGER BUSY.

Fillmore, Ind., Has a Wretch Who Is Terrorizing Women.

Fillmore, Ind., March 21.—A "Jack-the-hugger," sometimes attired in women's apparel, is terrorizing this village and citizens are banding together to catch the prowler. The "hugger" gets in his work shortly after nightfall and usually in the center of the town, one young woman being given a severe hugging just after leaving the postoffice.

Blow-Up of Man Indicted in Lorimer Scandal Forces Recess.

Chicago, March 21.—Attorney Charles Erbstein, on trial in the criminal court, with Arthur McBride, on charges of conspiring to defame State's Attorney Wayman, broke down and created a scene in court today during his cross examination of a detective on the stand.

The witness made a statement and Erbstein arose and shouted again and again, "I say he lies."

Admonished by the court the attorney added:

"I can't get my rights in this court, but it will take twelve men to take my liberty away from me. I'm not afraid of you, McGuire, (the witness) and if you take off your coat I'll meet you down stairs."

Judge McSurely, presiding, stopped the harangue and declared a recess till later in the day. Erbstein began to sob aloud and was taken away by friends.

SEE CREATES A SCENE.

Chicago, March 21.—Evelyn Arthur See, founder of the "Absolute Life" cultan exposition of which caused his arrest and that of two of his priestesses—young girls who made their home with him—created a sensation in the circuit court today by attempting to explain his philosophy and teachings to the court.

He was rebuked, but raising his voice to a scream, had to be quieted by the bailiff. His wife, who is separated from him, had secured an injunction against his disposing of property and this he sought to have dissolved. When asked about his wife See yelled:

"The man that married that woman is dead and in his place a new spirit was born."

BAR THE BUCKETSHOPS.

San Francisco Board of Supervisors Passes an Ordinance.

San Francisco, March 21.—A city ordinance prohibiting operation of "bucketshops" was passed by unanimous vote of the supervisors late last night. The proprietor of a local brokerage company urged that action should be delayed until the legislature at Sacramento should decide the fate of the similar measure now pending there, but Mayor McCarthy urged immediate action, saying that it was hinted in Sacramento that the supervisors had been "straightened out" so as to prevent the passage of the ordinance.

WANTS FISH HATCHERY SITE.

Bloomington, Ind., March 21.—Geo. H. Miles, state fish and game commissioner, was in Bloomington today in conference with Prof. Eisenmann, of Indiana university, who is an authority on fishes, in regard to the establishment of the state fish hatchery. Mr. Miles says he has between $15,000 and $20,000 to spend for that purpose. The two went to Mitchell this afternoon to visit the university farm, which the professor thinks would be an ideal site for the hatchery.

PURITY CONGRESS IN OCTOBER.

La Crosse, Wis., March 21.—E. H. Steadwell, president of the International Purity Federation today announced that the sixth international purity congress will be held at Columbus, Ohio, October 23-27.

DR. M'CORMICK PASSES AWAY

Had Long and Active Career as Soldier, Minister and Physician.

FOUNDED A CHURCH

Dr. Thomas H. McCormick, who had an active career as soldier, preacher and physician, died shortly after noon Tuesday at the home of his son-in-law, William Haller, 338 Madison street, at the age of 70 years, 10 months and 5 days. He had been in failing health for some time.

Dr. McCormick was born in Tuscarawas county, Ohio, and came to Fort Wayne about twenty years ago for the practice of his profession. For some years he had an office in the White Bank building. Prior to his coming to Fort Wayne Dr. McCormick had served as a soldier in the civil war and had spent some years as a minister of the gospel, having founded the Church of Christ in Marion in 1876.

Surviving relatives include the widow and the following children: Mrs. Minnie M. Houser, Furman C. McCormick, of Hartford City; Thomas H. McCormick, Miss Ada M. McCormick, of this city, and Harry B. McCormick, of Newark, Ohio. There is one sister, Mrs. Melinda Viers, of Blackwell, Okla. There are 21 grandchildren. Dr. McCormick was closely identified with religious work in Fort Wayne for many years and was a member of the Christian church.

Funeral services will be held from the residence Thursday afternoon, Rev. J. H. McCartney officiating. Interment at Lindenwood.

STORK CAME TO HER ON STREET

Mrs. Bugues, Sullivan, Ind., Visits Chicago and Has An Experience.

POLICE GIVE HER AID

Chicago, March 21.—Mrs. Sarah Bugues, 20 years old, walked into the Deering street police station here early today within an hour after the stork had visited her as she was walking through an alley and, presenting her child to the startled eyes of the police sergeant, asked to be cared for. She was taken to the county hospital.

Mrs. Bugues, who said her home was in Sullivan, Ind., but that she had been working in a restaurant here, at first told the police the child was three days old, but later, unwrapping it from the towel and old shawl which covered it, she admitted it was less than an hour old.

County hospital nurses said later neither the mother nor the daughter would suffer from their experience.

MRS. SCHENK AT FUNERAL.

Chicago Woman Goes to Cemetery Under Escort of Police.

Chicago, March 21.—Mrs. Theresa Staunton Schenk, who shot and killed her husband last Saturday morning and who was held to the grand jury at the coroner's inquest, today attended the funeral of her husband, which was conducted by the Masonic order. The Parkridge police allowed her to visit the cemetery under their custody and return to her home to prepare for her incarceration in the county jail which will begin tonight.

GENTLE SPRINGTIME NOW.

Blithesome Season Officially Arrived in Handsome Style.

According to the official schedule, spring has arrived. The season's debut was made, according to standard authorities, shortly after noon today, and the initial performance was one of which any spring might justly be proud.

The advent of the season in Fort Wayne was characterized by radiant sunshine, a balmy temperature that was strongly suggestive of June and an invigorating breeze that collaborated in a harmony of delightful meteorological conditions.

FIRST DRESS PARADE.

Concordia College Boys in Initial Ceremony of Season.

Lieut. Charles E. Reese, commandant of the military department at Concordia college, today put the college lads through the first dress parade of the season. Other evolutions have been held regularly but the dress parade was undertaken today for the first time this year.

Older classes are familiar with it, but to about one-fourth of the lads the dress parade today was an untried and unknown evolution.

BIDS FOR TURKISH LOANS.

Berlin, March 21.—Subscriptions for the Turkish loan of 7,000,000 Turkish pounds (approximately $31,500,000) were opened today and closed immediately, having been heavily over-subscribed. The price is 84 with interest at 4 per cent and the custom revenues of Constantinople pledged as security.

It is understood that the Turkish loan is to be used chiefly for the development of the army and navy. Germany secured the contract after negotiations with the Bank of France had failed.

TOM JOHNSON BETTER.

Cleveland, O., March 21.—Former Mayor Tom L. Johnson passed another restful night and following his continued progress today it is expected that he will regain most of the strength lost as a result of his relapse last week.

WASHINGTON IS IN COURT

Tuskegee Head Appears to Testify Against His Assailant.

MILDER CHARGE AGAINST ULRICH

Man Who Beat Up Colored Leader Says "It Will Come to Nothing."

New York, March 21.—Albert Ulrich, a white man, accused of assaulting Booker T. Washington in the hall way of an apartment house in West 63rd street last Saturday night, was held for trial in the court of special sessions at a date not made. The charge of felonious assault was abated to one of simple assault and battery and bail reduced from $1,500 to $500.

Dr. Washington came to court in an automobile, his head heavily bandaged and was prepared to take the stand. An elderly man with a white beard, who resembled Andrew Carnegie, accompanied him.

There was a stir in court when Magistrate Cornell, acting on the strength of the resemblance, asked the stranger to step on the judge's stand. The mistake was discovered when the man said he was former Governor Pinchback, of Louisiana. As Ulrich walked out of the court after furnishing bail he said:

"I guess nothing will ever come of this."

Dr. Washington rode away from the court in a city automobile with Borough President McAneny and William J. Flynn, deputy commissioner of police.

REPUDIATES INTERVIEW.

New York, March 21.—Booker T. Washington today repudiated interviews in which he was quoted as having said that a letter or telegram had caused his presence in West 63rd street Sunday night when he was severely beaten.

Dr. Washington said that he had so far recovered that there would be no difficulty in his getting to court, but there was an unconfirmed rumor that he might decide, at the last moment, not to prosecute Albert Ulrich, the carpenter, with the assault.

"I never told anyone, the police or the reporters, that I had received a letter or a telegram to call upon any one in West 63rd street," said Dr. Washington.

"I did say that I was looking for D. S. Smith, auditor of Tuskegee institute; that I believed he could be found with friends, and that, although I did not have their definite name or address, I believed I could find them by scrutinizing the name plates in the vestibules of the apartment houses in 63rd street. It was while thus engaged that I was assaulted."

Amplifies Statement.

As a matter of fact Dr. Washington said later, amplifying upon his earlier statement, he had received such a letter, but it did not figure in his search because he had torn it up.

The letter, he said, was from his secretary, E. J. Scott, in Tuskegee, in which Scott told him that Daniel Smith, auditor in the institute would be in about the same time that he (Dr. Washington) was and that his secretary forwarded this information because he thought Dr. Washington would like to keep in touch with Mr. Smith.

Dr. Washington said the letter arrived in New York about the time he did. Unfortunately, he said, he tore the letter; it was written in long hand and no copy was kept. As nearly as he could recall its contents, the secretary wrote him that Smith could be found with a family named McCrary; he thought it was at 11 West 63rd street. So last Sunday night he went to the house and looked over the names on the letter boxes.

NOT A NON-UNION RECRUITING POST

State Statistician Brolley Defends Indiana Free Labor Bureau.

HAD BEEN CRITICISED

Indianapolis, Ind., March 21.—Thomas W. Brolley, state statistician, in connection with whose office is operated a free employment bureau, denies the report from Evansville the bureau is operated as a "recruiting office for workmen not having union cards in cases where strikes are on, or where employers want open shop conditions.

Mr. Brolley declares no applicant for work is asked if he is affiliated with a union and adds that that is a matter to be settled between the applicant and the prospective employer.

"We treat them all alike," says the chief satistician.

The only time the question of union or non-union comes up at the bureau, according to Mr. Brolley, is when an employer sends in for a number of workmen and he is asked if the men are wanted merely to fill temporary vacancies, caused by labor disputes. This is done to prevent the applicants being burdened with railroad fare and possibly being met on their arrival at the work by pickets and being called strike breakers.

IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA.

Colonel Roosevelt Reaches Los Angeles for Two Days' Stay.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 21.—Theodore Roosevelt today came into southern California for a two days' stay. He will address the Y. M. C. A. here in the forenoon and in the afternoon he will speak to the high school and upper grade pupils leaving immediately afterward for Pasadena. His lecture there in the evening under the auspices of Throop technical institute will deal with scientific phases of his African hunting trip.

The colonel will return to Los Angeles Wednesday.

EXPRESS STRIKE QUIET.

New York, March 21.—While the striking drivers and helpers of the Adams Express company are still out the wagons of the company were run from the stables today without any trouble and company officials say the normal schedule is in operation. The police acting as guards on the wagons have all been withdrawn and only a few bluecoats remain on duty at the stables.

CHICAGO GIRL IS FOUND IN GOTHAM

Runaway Living Alone in State in Hotel in New York.

RAN AWAY FROM HOME

New York, March 21.—An hour after receipt of a telegram from Chicago asking that Mildred Peters, 13 years old, be located here, detectives found her today in solitary state in her room in a hotel near the Grand Central station, where she had registered. The Chicago police were notified and her father is now on his way here to claim his daughter.

Mildred was permitted to register at the hotel yesterday, telling the clerk she expected to meet her father here. No one accompanied her to the hotel and she remained alone in her room or about the hotel parlors the greater part of the time.

Chicago, March 21.—H. E. Peters, who left today for New York with two detectives to bring home his daughter, Mildred, said his daughter had run away last Saturday with another young girl whose identity he would not disclose.

ARRESTED AT LOGANSPORT.

Forger Taken Into Custody Three Times—Jailed for the Night

Logansport, Ind., March 21.—Harry E. Organ, of Marion, was arrested three times yesterday before he was finally lodged in the county bastile. As a fugitive from justice he was first placed on a $5,000 bond, which he quickly covered. Fearing he would leave the city the police re-arrested him on a charge of forging a cheque on a Decatur bank. He was placed on a $2,000 bond on this charge and that amount was also forthcoming. The third arrest was on a charge of forgery on a Logansport bank. The third bond of $1,000 could not be given, so the culprit was lodged in the county jail. The hearing was set for some time today.

RUSSIAN MINISTER KILLED.

Monday's Rumor from Peking Has Been Repeated in Cologne.

Cologne, Germany, March 21.—A dispatch to the Cologne Gazette, from Peking reports that M. Korostovetz, the Russian minister to China, has been murdered in Peking, thus repeating the rumor which was current in St. Petersburg yesterday but which had not been confirmed at a late hour last night.

GOULD CHAIRMAN OF M. P. BOARD

Ex-President of Missouri Pacific Given Place of Prominence.

NO NEW PRESIDENT

New York, March 21.—George J. Gould today tendered his resignation as president of the Missouri Pacific at a meeting of the directors of the railway and was elected chairman of the board. The presidency was left vacant at Mr. Gould's request, in the hope of filling it in the near future.

Directors of the Missouri Pacific railway chiefly interested themselves today in the selection of an executive committee, which will devote itself during the next five years to raising the necessary millions to rehabilitate the railroad. The office of chairman of the board was created for Mr. Gould, while the office of president will be left vacant until a new executive is selected.

BUFFALO TO SOUTH AMERICA.

Sunapee, N. H., March 21.—Three buffalo, a bull and two cows, have been shipped to New York, where they will be placed aboard a steamer for Callao, Peru. The buffalo were purchased from the late Austin Corbin's Blue Mountain reservation by the Peruvian government and will become the nucleus of the first herd of bison in South America.

PIONEER SUFFRAGIST DIES.

New Haven, Ct., March 21.—Addy Barker Sheldon, 78, wife of Joseph J. Sheldon, of this city, died last night. She was one of the early advocates of women's suffrage in this country, having attended as a delegate an equal suffrage convention in Syracuse in 1852.

THE WEATHER.

Washington, March 21.—Forecast for Indiana: Showers tonight and Wednesday; cooler Wednesday; brisk southwest winds.

Ohio: Increasing cloudiness followed by showers late tonight or Wednesday; warmer tonight; cooler Wednesday afternoon; brisk south winds shifting to northwest Wednesday.

Lower Michigan: Rain in south and rain or snow in north portion tonight or Wednesday morning, followed by fair; colder Wednesday; brisk and probably high southeast winds shifting to northwest tonight.

Illinois: Increasing cloudiness with showers tonight or Wednesday; cooler Wednesday and in north portion tonight.

PARK BOARD LET TREES CONTRACT

Seven Hundred Will Be Planted During the Present Season.

TURNED DOWN LEAGUE

Members of the park board at their session yesterday afternoon let to Henry W. Felger, member of the city council, the contract for supplying and planting 700 trees and shrubs and he will start on the work at once.

The board made a request for any old light posts that may be laying around loose among the city stores so that they can better illuminate Hayden park and Mayor Grice promised to have some of the men rummage about a bit and see if there are any posts to be had.

The board also turned down the Fort Wayne Shop league on the proposition to cut down two trees that interfere with the baseball diamond in Welser park on Hanna street. As a compromise Member Ferdinand Meier agreed to visit the park with a representative of the league to see if the diamond can be so changed that the trees will not interfere. Members of the board said they would like to help the league but did not feel like disposing of two trees that it would take years to replace.

Working on Ordinance.

City Attorney Harry G. Hogan is working on an ordinance to be presented at the next meeting of the city council asking for an appropriation to cover the expense of revising and codifying the city ordinances. It will be necessary to have from 500 to 700 copies printed at a cost of about $1.50 week. They say Diaz is too proud and not be estimated.

The ordinance will be ready to submit to the revision committee which is scheduled to meet Thursday evening.

Gone for Patrol Wagon.

Mayor Grice, the members of the board of public safety, Chief of Police Abbott and a party of newspaper representatives went to Auburn this afternoon and will return with the new auto patrol which has just been completed.

DEATH SUMMONS RICHARD KAOUGH

Edward M. Dolan, Pioneer Farmer, Dies at Age of 80 Years.

THE MORTUARY NEWS

Richard Kaough, 62 years of age, brother of ex-Postmaster William Kaough, died at 9:45 o'clock Tuesday morning at his home, 537 Brackenridge street, after an extended illness. He had been in failing health for the past ten years, and for five years had been retired. During the past four or five weeks his condition had been critical.

Mr. Kaough was a retired engineer. He was born and reared in Washington township, coming to Fort Wayne at the age of 21 years. His first employment was at the blacksmith's trade, and later he worked as an engineer for the Pennsylvania company, for the Bass foundry, for the city waterworks and for eight years as engineer at the government building.

Two brothers and two sisters survive. They are William Kaough, of this city, and James Kaough, of Aboit township; Mrs. E. F. Clausmeier and Miss Elizabeth Kaough. Mr. Kaough was unmarried, making his home with a brother and a sister. He was a member of the Cathedral congregation.

DOLAN.

After an illness of but two hours, Edward Marcellus Dolan, a pioneer Allen county farmer, died Monday afternoon at his home in Wayne township, seven and one-half miles southwest of Fort Wayne. Death was due to heart disease. He was 80 years of age. Mr. Dolan complained of illness during the forenoon and a physician was summoned. The case did not appear to be a serious one, and after prescribing for the aged man the doctor left the home. Within a few moments came the second attack of the malady, which proved fatal.

Mr. Dolan had been a resident of Allen county since 1850, and was widely and favorably known. He was united in marriage in 1855 to Anna Crow, and lived continuously upon the farm where his death occurred. At first a carpenter, Mr. Dolan later gave his attention to the fur trade in connection with agricultural pursuits. Surviving children are Mary and Isabelle Dolan, of Chicago; Mrs. S. A. Drew, Mrs. Elizabeth Kering, Mrs. Frank Wilkenson, Mrs. Josephine Connett and William Dolan, of this city, and Catherine and Charles Dolan, residing at the family home. Another son, Edward Dolan, was killed in November last by a Wabash engine at Taylor street. Mr. Dolan was a member of St. Patrick's Catholic church.

The aged wife also survives. Funeral services will be held Thursday morning from St. Patrick's congregachurch.

LAUER.

Francis M. Lauer, 22, employed as order clerk at the East car shops of the Pennsylvania company, died at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Lauer, 812 Coombs street. He had long been in failing health and for three months had been seriously ill.

The young man was born and reared in this city, educated in St. Mary's school and was a member of the graduating class of 1904. He was a member of the St. Aloysius Young Men's society, the Knights of Columbus, Ben-Hur Court No. 15, Tribe of Ben-Hur and Wayne Tent, Knights of the Maccabees. Surviving relatives include the parents and a brother, Laurence Lauer.

Funeral services Saturday morning at 8:30 from the residence.

HICKMAN.

Daniel Hickman, aged 71 years, residing at 1609 Sherman street, died at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning at Hope hospital from hemorrhage of the lungs.

Mr. Hickman was an expressman by occupation and came to Fort Wayne thirty-five years ago. He was a member of Lawton-Wayne post, G. A. R., and of Trinity M. E. church. Surviving relatives include the widow, two sons and two daughters—Eugene and Sherman Hickman, Mrs. Clara Parker, Richmond, Ind., and Mrs. Rose Seeley, of this city.

FUNERAL NOTICES.

Rayhouser.—Funeral services for Charles Rayhouser will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence, 1743 Franklin avenue, and at 2:30 from the English Lutheran Church of the Redeemer.

TALKED ARBITRATION.

Paris, March 21.—Conversations have been held between President Taft and M. Jusserand, French ambassador at Washington, respecting a comprehensive agreement for arbitration between the United States and France upon the general outline of the president's ideas regarding international peace treaties. These conversations are considered unofficial but as preparing the way for a treaty similar to that proposed between Great Britain and the United States.

MUST COMPLY WITH CITY ORDINANCE

Violations of Unloading Ordinance Must Cease, Says Chief Abbott.

MERCHANTS NOTIFIED

Attorney Harry F. Kenmerk, secretary of the Fort Wayne Retail Merchants' association, who was appointed one of a committee of three to look into violations of the unloading ordinance by Columbia street commission houses, at a recent meeting of the association, was in conference with Chief of Police Dayton Abbott, regarding the matter Saturday. As the result of this conference Chief Abbott notified the merchants of Columbia street and others that they would be required to comply with the ordinance and load and unload at the alley entrance, and that they would also be required to keep the sidewalks clear in front of their places of business.

Chief Abbott stated to The Sentinel this morning that he had received numerous complaints regarding the violations of the ordinance by Columbia street merchants, and that while he could not keep an officer stationed there to prevent these violations, he thought that they would cease since the merchants had been notified that they must comply with the ordinance.

When the matter of the violations was first brought to the attention of the association and the committee appointed, it was decided to first give the merchants an opportunity to comply with the ordinance, and then if the violations continued to file affidavits against the violators. As this step has been taken results are being awaited, and if it does not prove effective the affidavits will be filed.

PETITION BURNED.

Business Men's League Destroyed the Troublesome Papers.

Columbia City, Ind., March 21.—The names of the members of the Columbia City Business Men's league will never be publically known, and the secret has grown into quite a good-sized joke. Several days ago a petition to the voters of the city (asking them to vote wet in the coming option election) appeared in the local newspapers, signed by the Business Men's league. There was much speculating and wondering as to who made up the league and whether the league and the Business Men's association were one. As the names of the signers were not printed the whole affair took on a humorous aspect and the league became the laughing stock of the city.

Last night the Business Men's league became a historical organization. The members met in secret session and it is now known that the offending petition and the signatures went up in blaze and smoke.

PROFESOR UNDER THE KNIFE.

Bloomington, Ind., March 21.—Within six hours two professors of Indiana university were operated on for appendicitis late yesterday. It is thought both will recover. Prof. C. D. Campbell, of the German and music department, was the first to be placed on the operating table, and he was followed by Dr. R. B. Way, of the history department. The same surgeons performed both operations.

KILL WOMAN SUFFRAGE BILL.

Des Moines, Ia., March 21.—The Iowa legislature today killed the woman suffrage bill. A large crowd of women was present when the vote was taken.

CRUISERS P. O. IS ROBBED.

Seattle, Wash., March 21.—The disappearance of $525 from the postoffice of the armored cruiser Colorado now at the Puget Sound navy yard, has been reported. A thorough search of the ship was made but no trace of the missing money was found. Captain W. A. Gill has appointed a board to investigate the loss.

KENNEDY HADN'T HEARD ABOUT IT

Took a Little Jag Down in the Closed District Last Night.

CITY COURT DOCKET

James Kennedy, Huntington, Ind., had heard about Judge Edward O'Rourke's hermetically sealed lid and after he had arrived in Fort Wayne and picked up a composite jag from various and sundry quencheries, he followed the usual bent and went to the closed district.

He was caught coming away. Two policemen had been called by a watchman whose duty it is to keep marauders out of 126 Eureka street, and they made the capture. Kennedy excited some curiosity by saying he had talked to a woman in one of the resorts, giving rise to the belief that somebody had attempted to pry the lid loose, but the officers said they had searched the establishment and had not found the female.

Drunks Are Fined.

James Howard, who came here a few years ago and stuck around until he had served about six months in jail on the installment plan, got back yesterday and went over for fifteen days. He is a cripple with one good eye and a source of annoyance to the police, who have heretofore been unable to chase him out of town.

Nelson Youse, A. L. Donald and Nelson Johnson were fined $5 and costs each and Joseph Mulhorn drew $1.

Mike Dugioli, charged with carrying concealed weapons, and Frank Dell, charged with loitering, were held for investigation.

The case against Fred Fuller, charged by the Jewell Tea company with embezzlement, was resumed today.

NEGROES ARE BARRED OUT.

Winnipeg, Man., March 21.—Officers of the immigration department left today for Emerson, on the border, to stop the entry into Canada of 165 negroes from Oklahoma, who intend to settle in Canadian northwest. The railway company has appealed to Washington and Counsel General Jones has been instructed to go to see that they get through.

JURORS FOR BRODERICK.

Springfield, Ill., March 21.—Four more jurors were accepted in the trial of State Senator John Broderick, of Chicago, charged with having bribed former State Senator D. W. Holstlaw pursuant to his vote for Senator William Lorimer. Eight jurors have now been finally accepted.

WILL BE A HARRIMAN BANK.

Washington, March 20.—A charter for the Harriman National Bank of New York offered by the family of the late E. H. Harriman to perpetuate his memory was issued today. The day and night bank of New York will be absorbed. Joseph W. Harriman, a nephew of the late Mr. Harriman, will be president of the new bank.

TO END SHIPPING DISPUTES.

Cologne, Germany, March 21.—Trans-Atlantic shipping representatives met here today to discuss several disputed points now standing in the way of a renewal of the Atlantic conference pool agreement. The deliberations are private.

ABANDONED WIVES RECOUNT WRONGS

Mrs. Spence Gets a Decree and Mrs. Jacobs Asks for One.

CASES IN THE COURTS

Two abandoned wives, one of them asking for a decree of divorce and the other relieved of her marital woes, were before the superior court today.

Sadie Jacobs filed a complaint in which she said that Jesse W. Jacobs abandoned her in November, 1908 and had failed to make any provision for her support. They were married in June, 1907. W. C. Ryan filed the suit.

Catherine E. Spence testified that Jesse L. Spence abandoned her several years ago and that she did not know his present address. There was no defense and the decree was granted.

Articles are Filed.

Articles of incorporation of the Fort Wayne Artificial Limb company were filed with the recorder. Frank Wood and Thomas J. and Catherine O'Dowd are the incorporators and the capital stock is $500.

Court Notes.

Joseph Sacks has filed a petition in the superior court asking that his wife, Dora, from whom he is divorced, be compelled to return their children to the custody of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Brown. He charges that his wife is living with Waller Rable and that there is no record of a marriage license having been issued to them.

At the conclusion of the evidence in the suit of Lulu Reed against Alva Reed the matter was taken under advisement.

In the commissioners' court James E. Durdle was designated as the personal representative of the estate of Calvin Ditzler, deceased, and given permission to continue the saloon formerly conducted by the decedent.

STRIKERS ARMED AND MARCHING LIKE ARMY

were fired in the vicinity of mine No. 1 and these aroused the whole town. Watchers soon afterward reported that the Benld miners were marching upon the town headed by the Italian band. When upon the outskirts of Gillespie the marchers switched off and traveled to mine No. 1.

To the foreigners' surprise none of the employes of the mine appeared for work at either No. 1 or No. 3. The employes had been ordered to remain away from both mines until the arrival of troops, under whose protection they will report for work tomorrow morning.

The marchers then paraded through Gillespie and continued back to Benld. Pickets reported that the marchers carried a red flag until within sight of Gillespie when the American flag was substituted.

Superintendent Reece came here from Iowa, where formerly he was president of the Iowa miners and afterward commissioner for the Iowa operators.

Aroused the Foreigners.

A declaration by Reece that he intended to ferret out all the foreigners who bought their jobs and have them expelled from the union had added to the sentiment against him. It is claimed the foreigners bought the places in the mines upon payment of $500 and $1,000.

As a precautionary measure, Superintendent Reece's family went to Carlinville last night. Col. Lang is being furnished with the names of the mob leaders and will start this evening making wholesale arrests. More troops may be necessary to enforce martial law.

There are about 350 soldiers on the ground. Col. Lang has been advised of the dangers he may encounter in taking Prosperita club at Benld, which, according to his advices, is fortified with a stockade and is in position to withstand a heavy attack.

The Superior Coal company owns three mines here with a daily output of about 10,000 tons.

Mine No. 1 lies two miles east of Gillespie; No. 2 is in Benld, a town of 1,200 inhabitants, two miles south of Gillespie, and No. 3 is a mile southwest of Gillespie. The three mines employ about 1,800 men.

MINING TOWN QUIET.

Benld, Ill., March 21.—The arrival of the state militia early this morning found this mining town quiet. The miners, who have been bearing arms for several days, hurriedly left for one of the nearby mining camps. Their departure was heralded by the beating of drums, shouting and firing of guns. The troops from Springfield were first on the ground and these were followed by the militia from Danville.

Early today no trouble had occurred and the officers of the militia were secretive as to what action they would take during the day. Trouble is feared if the militia undertakes to disarm the striking miners.

Efforts are to be made by the leaders in the miners' union to induce their men to return to work.

RAILROAD PROMOTER DIES.

Boston, Mass., March 21.—Nathaniel Thayer, one of the pioneer railroad promoters of the United States died at his home in this city today. Mr. Thayer was a director of the United States steel corporation, the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, American Telephone and Telegraph company and many other companies.

The total consumption of beef and mutton in Great Britain in 1909 amounted to 1,990,000 tons, of which 595,000 tons were imported in a frozen state.

ANOTHER "MAN WHO BROKE THE BANK AT MONTE CARLO."

CAPTAIN DE COURCY BOWER

The luck of Captain de Courcy Bower, at Monte Carlo within the last few weeks has been extraordinary. Various estimates have been given of the amount he has won; some place it at $1,100,800. The captain plays in company with five others, never stakes more than $200, and does not remove his money until it has reached the maximum $2,750. On one Sunday he cleared $125,000, and the bank had to send out six times for more money.

STUBBED TOE AS MAN PASSED HIM

Gus Borgman's Mishap Prevents Capture of a Degenerate.

ASSAULTS MRS. BURNS

Gus Borgman, former member of the city police force stubbed his toe last night as he was running after a fellow who had assaulted Mrs. James J. Burns, of 225 Masterson avenue, and the fact that he fell just as he was reaching for his man enabled a degenerate to escape after he had frightened the woman most out of her wits.

To aggravate matters Mrs. Burns had submitted to a surgical operation, as only two weeks had elapsed since she left a hospital, and she suffered severely from the shock. Patrolman Joe Brennan made a report at police headquarters but did not get the name of the woman who had been assaulted.

Mrs. Burns noticed the man behind her all the way from the central part of the city but did not pay any particular attention. The attack was made at Clinton street and Masterson avenue, and her cries attracted Mrs. Borgman who called to her husband. He ran out and fell just as he was in reach of the man, and by the time he had resumed the chase the man had gained an alley and disappeared.

CITY BREVITIES.

The following patients were admitted to the Lutheran hospital Monday: Mrs. Ella Essig, of Brackenridge street; Mrs. J. McBeth Smith, of Harmer street; E. F. Hachstittler, of Colerick street; Mrs. W. A. Parvin, of East Jefferson street; Mrs. M. R. Hardendorf, of Scott avenue, and Mrs. A. L. Obenchain, of South Whitley.

Gus Rauner, of South Lafayette street, and William Distell, of 2912 Force street, will leave Wednesday for Denver, Col., for an indefinite stay.

The following cases of contagious diseases have been reported to Dr. E. M. Van Buskirk, county health officer: Minnie Smith, 34 years old; Lulu Smith, 12 years old, and Lawrence Smith, 9 years old, of Grabill, scarlet fever; Erwin Yoder, of Huntertown, measles.

Enlistments at the local army recruiting station Monday were as follows: Walter H. Sweazey, of Indianapolis, coast artillery; J. G. Hunter, Fort Wayne, coast artillery; R. Hench, of Ohio, coast artillery.

Gerald Bohn has returned from Battle Creek, Mich., much improved in health, and within a few days will go to Terre Haute to resume his work there.

Mrs. Preistroffer, residing near Hesse Cassel, is reported very ill. The patient is 83 years of age.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

LADIES ORGANIZE NEW CIVIC LEAGUE

Wabash Ladies in Favor of Clean City—Call Meeting and Elect League Officers.

Wabash, Ind., March 21.—That this city will have a new civic league was practically assured by the meeting held in Memorial hall Saturday afternoon. About thirty of the thinking women of the city met and took the first step toward organizing the new league. At the meeting officers were elected and the plans for the spring campaign were discussed. Before adjourning the newly elected officers decided to hold a meeting with Mrs. Joe Davis on Tuesday evening, at which time the matter of constitution and by-laws will be decided.

The Wabash Civic league is organized for the purpose of attending to such work as may come under the head of civic improvement. A date will be determined upon to be observed as flower day. Another date, probably earlier, will be set aside as cleaning-up day. On this day all of the citizens of Wabash will be asked to clean up their premises, and on flower day the populace will be asked to plant posies in their yards, all of which will go to beautify the city. An attempt will also be made to have receptacles placed at the various corners in the down town district for waste paper. This is the second organization of the kind Wabash has had and the work of the first was so satisfactory that it was decided to form a new league.

URAEMIC POISON CAUSES DEATH

Ligonier, Ind., March 21.—Charles Weade, employed as clerk in King & Weaver's hardware store of this city was stricken with uraemic poisoning Saturday night while eating lunch at White's restaurant in Ligonier. He was removed to his home on Grand street and died at 2 o'clock Sunday morning, without regaining consciousness. Mr. Weade had been in his usual health up until the time he entered the restaurant.

MARRIED 63 YEARS.

Lagrange, Ind., March 21.—Mr. and Mrs. Christian Miller, of this county, on the thirteenth of April, expect to celebrate their sixty-third wedding anniversary. They are natives of Ohio and at one time lived in Jefferson township, Noble county, from 1850 to 1854. Mr. Miller has been a prosperous farmer and for many years operated a sawmill. He is well known throughout this section.

FREAKISH BLAZE NEAR HUNTINGTON

Playful Flames Consume Vehicle While Owner Visits—Horse Undisturbed.

Huntington, Ind., March 21.—Huntington county has had her share of queer incidents, but the experience of Ed Stephan at the German Settlement Sunday certainly deserves a place near the top of the list. Mr. Stephan's buggy was burned to ashes while still hitched to the horse and he never knew of it until he was about to start home Sunday evening.

About the middle of the afternoon Mr. Stephan arrived at the home of a friend who lived at the settlement. He tied his horse to the post in front of the house and went inside. The afternoon was pleasantly spent and when evening came he decided it was time to leave. As he stepped from the front door he noticed that his horse was still hitched to the post, but the buggy was absent. Suspecting a trick, the young man walked towards the animal and before he reached the spot he saw it all. The rig was then a heap of smouldering ashes.

The only explanation which Stephan had to offer for the buggy taking fire was that he had been smoking on the way to the place and sparks had either fallen to the seat cushion while he was in the rig or he had dropped the cigar in the mottom while getting out. In the latter instance the robes had no doubt caught fire first. The buggy was fitted with a top and was practically new, having been purchased only late last summer. How the rig could have burned so completely without attracting the attention of those in the house is unexplainable.

Still more wonderful is the fact that through it all the horse stood there and made no effort to escape. It chanced that the wind was blowing in the horse's face, which carried the smoke and much of the heat away from it.

DRUNKEN FIEND ATTACKS GIRL.

Hired Man Imbibes Too Freely and Goes On Rampage.

Huntington, Ind., March 21.—Inspired by a drunken condition, William Powers, employed as hired hand on the farm of Mrs. Clara Woods in Polk township, attempted an assault upon Miss Bernice Woods, aged fourteen, and failing in this, drove the entire family from their home early Saturday evening. Mrs. Woods and children were forced to seek protection in the home of a neighbor, from where information reached Sheriff P. M. McCarty, who was hurried to Polk township in an automobile. Powers had taken a horse and buggy belonging to Mrs. Woods and was en route to Huntington when arrested by the sheriff near the John Woodrow place.

Miss Woods fortunately escaped from the hands of the man, losing a few strands of hair which Powers had grabbed.

Powers was arraigned yesterday morning before a magistrate on several charges—attempted criminal assault and assault and battery, and was bound over to th ecircuit court. The evidence against him is conclusive and nothing can save him from a penitentiary sentence.

MORE MEASLES IN DECATUR.

Fully 300 Cases in the City—None Have Proven Fatal.

Decatur, Ind., March 21.—Many new cases of measles are being reported each day, and the epidemic is undoubtedly the worst that the people of this vicinity have ever been subjected to.

It is estimated by the health board that there are fully three hundred cases in the city. Yesterday morning but two lone pupils reported for duty in the primary grade in the South ward, taught by Miss Eva Acker, and Professor E. E. Rice therefore decided that it would be best to dismiss school there for the remainder of the week, which was accordingly done. The strange art about the epidemic is that several who have been known to have had the measles before, are victims of the epidemic also. Dick Archbold and a child of Frank Gass are going through with all the delights of the measles a second time, and the little Lichtle boy, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Malley, it is said, is having the measles for the third time. While many of the victims are quite sick, no cases have proven fatal and the sickness is not considered serious, if the necessary care is taken.

WILL EXPLODE GIANT BLAST.

Will Use 3,000 Pounds of Dynamite to Loosen Stone.

Wabash, Ind., March 21.—The giant blast being prepared by Contractors Conover & Taber, for the loosening of the large quantities of stone on the Columbus street work near the junction of the city car lines and the Indiana Union Traction company lines will probably be loosed Wednesday or Thursday.

The holes have all been drilled and work will be started in the placing of the explosives after which it will be connected to a heavy electric charge and exploded. Two hundred holes have been prepared and about fifteen pounds of dynamite will be placed in each hole, making a total charge of 3,000 pounds of explosives to be loosed. It is thought possible to loosen and possibly remove all the necessary stone at the Columbus street cut with the one blast and as there are no buildings near by there will be no danger from the heavy explosion unless it would be on the nerves of the parties residing near by.

AGED LADY BREAKS ARM.

Hartford City, Ind., March 21.—While the Trant family was at church Sunday, Mrs. Trant's mother, Mrs. Mary Singer, who is subject to vertigo, fell and broke her arm above the elbow. When the family returned they found the injured lady on the floor. Mrs. Singer makes her home with James Trant, on South Walnut street.

BOTH SIDES CONFIDENT.

Goshen Is Polled by "Wets" and "Drys" —Both Factions Sure of Victory.

Goshen, Ind., March 21.—Both the "wets" and "drys" have finished official polls of the 10 voting precincts in the city of Goshen and each side is confident it has an excellent idea of how the vote will be cast at the city local option election one week from tomorrow.

It was announced by the wets that their poll showed something like 400 majority in the city. One precinct is listed at about 85 wet. The "drys" say they have figures going to show that each one of the ten precincts will show a "dry" majority. Evidently one side at least has been in error.

At the county local option election held two years ago Goshen city went wet by a slight majority, while Elkhart township voted dry.

WOMAN HELD FOR HUSBAND'S DEATH

Coroner in Chicago Will Let Grand Jury Probe Killing of Schenk.

WOMAN TELLS STORY

Chicago, March 21.—Mrs. Charles Schenk, after confessing that she shot and killed her husband early Saturday morning after a night's carousal, yesterday afternoon was held to the grand jury on charge of murder. Under police guard the woman will be permitted to attend the funeral of her victim, which will be conducted tomorrow. Then she will be placed in jail.

A detailed story of the night of revelry which preceded the killing was given to the coroner's jury. The evening's pleasure began at a church eucher party and ended at the Schenk home, where whisky, beer, wine and champagne were served.

"Chick" Fraser, ball player, on the witness stand at the coroner's inquest, was frank in explaining the affair.

Admits Killing Husband.

Mrs. Jessie Stanton Schenk, the widow, who has declared that she fired the fatal shot in the belief that her husband was a burglar, was present at the inquest. She had recovered her composure after two days of hysteria and followed the testimony closely. Mrs. Schenk when called to the stand said:

"I know I killed him. He called me and I do not know whether I pulled the trigger or gave it to him, but I am sure I did it. Nobody else did it.

"He called, 'Jessie, Jessie.' I jumped up. It was something unusual. He had his revolver in the cabinet. It was on top, which was an unusual thing. I grabbed it and ran downstairs. He was in the hall in a sort of kneeling position. I would not swear, but I think I pulled the trigger and did not give it to him."

"How many shots were fired?"

"I don't know. I know I killed him. I know I did. I could not see who was lying there. He was kneeling down."

"What was he doing there?"

"I do not know. I was asleep when he called me."

"Where was the revolver?"

"It was on the dresser."

"Where were you when it was discharged?"

Threw Revolver Away.

"I have a feeling that I stood about on the sixth step; and I know that I shot it. I know I did. I know I killed him. Then I threw it away, when I did. I did not know whether it was him or somebody else."

"Had you been quarreling?"

"No, we went to bed so happy."

Charles ("Chick") Fraser, the ball player, formerly with the "Cubs," told of the events of the night preceding the tragedy.

He told of meeting Mrs. Schenk and the others at Norwood park. His wife and her sister, Mrs. Schenk, Mr. and Mrs. E. Chesterman were with him. After the return to Park Ridge they went to the Park hotel and to the rooms of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Johnson.

"There we drank some whisky," testified Fraser. "I gave Mrs. Schenk a glass, but did not see her drink it. Later we drank some champagne and some Italian wine."

Mr. Fraser then told of meeting Mr. Schenk and of going to the Schenk home about 2 a. m.

Danced Until Dizzy

"There we had more whisky and some beer," he said, "and Mrs. Schenk provided some wine for the ladies. I think she said it was grape juice. We sang some songs and then we danced. Mrs. Schenk and I waltzed. That is, we tried to. I can't dance, but she trier to teach me. There was also a quadrille, and after that Mrs. Schenk complained of being dizzy. Mrs. Chesterman and Mrs. Fraser helped her up stairs and helped her to bed. Then the party broke up."

"Was anybody intoxicated?" he was asked.

"Well, the men were feeling good."

The uncertainty of Mrs. Schenk's story, together with the testimony of Paul Cebek, Schenk's hostler, who declared he heard two shots fired about a minute apart, shortly after 6 o'clock in the morning, are said to have been the cause of the jury voting to hold Mrs. Schenk to the grand jury.

DRUG COMPANY INCORPORATES.

Portland, Ind., March 21.—Articles of incorporation of the Pierce-Hoppes Drug company, at Redkey, have been filed with a capital stock of $20,000. The incorporators are John S. Pierce, William O. Hoppes and Lillian N. Pierce. John S. Pierce has been in the drug business at Redkey for a number of years and has made a modest fortune, while Mr. Hopes has been associated with him as clerk for several years. It is understood that Mr. Pierce contemplates retiring from the active management of the store in the near future and his new business partner will assume charge.

CIGAR MAN IS EASY.

Hartford City, Ind., March 21.—Thieves one night last week forced an entrance to the Red-Link cigar store and made away with a money sack containing $10 in change. Saturday another bold thief picked a $1.50 box of candy off the show case and walked out with it.

PLACES BAN ON TOBACCO.

Garrett, Ind., March 21.—The B. & O. employes at Garrett, not laid off at this time, met a very stringent order yesterday morning when they went to work. General Manager Thompson, of Baltimore, has issued a general order for no tobacco to be used by the company's men while on duty and one of these orders took effect at Garret, yesterday. The new management of the road thinks better results can be attained if the pipe and the plug are left at home.

Baseball, the great American game, occupies a unique position among sports. It has a greater attendance than any other sport can boast anywhere in the world. Last year 7,258,525 people saw the big league games, and countless thousands more saw the minor league games, and many, many thousands saw the unreckoned amateur games.—April St. Nicholas.

Woman's Nature

It is the nature of women to suffer uncomplainingly, the discomforts and fears that accompany the bearing of children. Motherhood is their crowning glory, and they brave its sufferings for the joy that children bring. No expectant mother need suffer, however, during the period of waiting, nor feel that she is in danger when baby comes, if Mother's Friend is used in preparation of the event. Mother's Friend relieves the pain and discomfort caused by the strain on the different ligaments, overcomes nausea by counteraction, prevents backache and numbness of limbs and soothes the inflammation of breast glands. Its regular use fits and prepares every portion of the mother's system for a proper and natural ending of the term, and it assures for her a quick and complete recovery. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Write for free book for expectant mothers.

NO CONSERVATION OF HUMAN LIFE.

Last year in Pennsylvania it cost the lives of one thousand one hundred and twenty-five human beings to take from the earth what coal was mined. This seems appalling; yet, it is represented by the Pennsylvania state department of mines, that more coal is mined in that state per life lost than in Great Britain or in most of the states of the union. This may be true, doubtless is true or the statement would not officially be made. Nevertheless it seems like a frightful contribution from the ranks of peaceful pursuits to the tragedy of existence. To that number may perhaps be added as many more who perished in one way and another in daily toil—in mills and factories, in quarries and on railroads. In Pittsburg and vicinity it is stated to be the fact that hundreds are annually killed in the great mills and thousands maimed. A short time since a startling exhibit was made for two or three big industrial plants in the state of Ohio. So it goes. Thousands—literally tens of thousands—annually are slain and hundreds of thousands maimed in the great manufacturing concerns and on the railways of the country. This means not only producing labor destroyed, but added burdens upon society for the physical care of those helpless dependents who survive the victims. America pays too much in human life for her industrial and commercial greatness. There is too much conservation of the soil, of the forests, of the streams, of the herds and droves and flocks if that is being had at any expense of the conservation of human life. Of course there is not too much conservation of any of our resources, but of them all there is less of human life. It is the cheapest commodity we have.

Public playgrounds are the signs that the community which maintains them is taking care for the conservation of the most precious of all its resources. Playgrounds mean healthy children, cheerful youngsters, boys and girls with bodily energies developed. Whatever aids in the promotion of the playgrounds movement and the development of playgrounds makes a strong call upon all people. It is a movement comparatively new to Fort Wayne, but of tested value in some larger communities, and sufficiently experienced here to make its value understood. A week of public entertainment for the purpose of aiding the playgrounds movement with funds will be inaugurated within a few weeks. It will be worth your while to patronize that entertainment to some extent. The money realized will be used to make children happy, healthy and hearty. In such an enterprise surely every one will want some part. And it is so easy. No trouble or worry is put upon the patron. He just pays and the operation is over.

Senor Limantour seems almost unable to make strong enough his protest that he is not going to be temporary president or any other kind of a president while the revolutionary junta starts Senor Diaz on the run and proceeds to elect his successor. Senor Limantour has returned to the land of his job and Diaz may wonder if Senor Limantour is not going more than far enough in this matter of domestic peace for Mexico. The Mexican minister of finance is an able statesman, a perfectly lovely fiscal engineer and much of the development of Mexico is due to his genius and not the talents of his chief. But Senor Limantour knows how it is: he has seen it happen to others. Porfirio Diaz has never brooked any rivals, active and outreaching or potential.

The cast-off old second-class battleship Texas has been consigned to a miserable fate. She is to be shot to pieces in target practice and so will come an inglorious end to a gallant hulk that had more trouble to stay on top of the water and remain right side up than any other craft that had not been scuttled. The Texas was the naval hoodoo and was usually playing porpoise or turning turtle or getting in the way or doing something not prescribed in the movements of ship. The Texas will be longer remembered for the fact that brave and chivalrous Admiral Jack Philip commanded her at the sea battle of Santiago, where she performed better than at any time in her career.

It will be the general belief that slander has been the recourse of the man who assaulted Dr. Booker T. Washington, the great negro leader, in New York Sunday night. As a defense it is represented by the assailant that Dr. Washington in a house where he was looking for a friend, made himself highly objectionable to the wife of the man who later beat him brutally with a club. The inference is clear enough and it will be very promptly discredited throughout the country. Dr. Washington is not only the greatest man his race has yet produced, but he is one of the great living Americans. His character is above assault and the man who so cruelly clubbed him should have contented himself with that and should not seek to extentuate his thick-headed blundering—if it was no worse than that—by representing that Dr. Washington's behavior toward a white woman was such as to bring a deserved chastisement.

Six of the nine members of the city council of Gary, Ind., are saloonkeepers. The council has just voted to raise the city saloon license to the maximum figure of $500 permitted by the Proctor regulation act. Gary is surely in need of the regulation and probably none appreciate it more than the men engaged in the saloon business. The reform is coming from an unexpected quarter and it may not be wholly disinterested, but that need not deter the people of Gary from embracing the better condition with some rapture. The higher license will doubtless do something beside produce revenue.

The Chicago woman who has just been jailed to await action of the grand jury for the killing of her husband admits that she shot him, but cannot explain why or how. It has transpired in the coroner's inquest that the night previous to the killing was spent in merrymaking and that from two o'clock until five in the morning the lady was drinking first whisky and then champagne with her husband and the guests. That ought to account for about everything the unfortunate lady herself cannot account for.

It is believed that the deadlock in the New York legislature will soon be broken by the withdrawal of Mr. Sheehan. It is very evident that as long as Mr. Sheehan does not withdraw there will be a deadlock. The democratic insurgency in the New York legislature is the kind that does not abate and seldom compromises. They do not want Mr. Sheehan and so will not vote for him. Than which better reason there is none.

The extra session of congress will at least develop whether Uncle Joe Cannon has been deprived of any of his abnormal capacity for being a standpatter and all that that can imply. Uncle Joe will be the possessor of one minority vote and that is going to be itself some different.

The fact that an army is a great factor in the conservation of peace is fully shown by the keen anxiety of the troops on the border for something to happen and for orders to "go over the line." The soldier, as is much the case with men in other lines, likes to work at his trade.

Among other things the public would like to know about this military demonstration on the border of Mexico is what it means. Perhaps the president will be willing to go that far with the public.

EFFECT OF RATE-RULING.

(W. G. Nicholas.)

When it came to picking up the wreckage occasioned by the stock market collision with the interstate commission, it was found that nobody was hurt excepting those who sold the market short and a lot of Englishmen who had deluded themselves with the notion that the United States government was about to confiscate the railroads. It has been ascertained that very few stockholders of record were panic bitten, or had permitted themselves to be in the slightest degree demoralized. It was quite an effort for the railroad presidents and attorneys who had been preaching calamity to get off their perch and readjust themselves to actualities. They kept up the chorus of lamentations for a few days and then suddenly awoke to the consciousness that the threatened deluge had not taken place according to their announced program, and that nobody was being seriously disturbed by what had happened in Washington. Then began a change in the spirit of the output and now the railroad men are becoming reconciled to the decision and are preparing themselves to face a world that is not quite as frowning as they had expected.

The reverse side of the picture is impressing itself at last on the minds of the railroad phalanx. Investors were quick to see and realize the advertising value of the government's indorsement of the American railroad systems. No such certificate of rating has ever been given an industry as that prepared and published by the interstate commerce commission in explanation of its rulings. The railroads could afford to have the document translated into every language, printed in black type and ditributed broadcast over the whole world by the tens of millions of copies. It is a wonderful testimonial and will be taken seriously by investors in every city and country on the habitable globe. The absolute refusal of real owners of railroad stocks to be stampeded by the raiders who broke the market in a day after the decision was handed down is an impressive exhibition of the sturdy courage and impassiveness of the investing classes.

The truth is Wall street opinion and Wall street market action do not count so much with the general public as the experts and so-called price makers would like to have themselves believe. One reason for this is that there is less margin trading by this general public than ever before, in proportion to the volume of business done. Brokers and commission houses complain of the lack of margin patronage and note that where it was formerly the custom for men to come into their offices, lay down $1,000, $10,000 or $50,000 and buy stocks on a ten-point margin, they trade in one-tenth as many stocks, pay for them in full and carry away the certificates. That kind of stocks never come back on the market on the minor breaks. They are never a menace to prices and it has come to pass that in times like these the great floating supply which in other days was scattered broadcast is lodged in strong hands—that is to say, it is in the possession of a moneyed element experienced in financial method and qualified to make its own arrangements with the banks for carrying the securities.

POLICEWOMAN'S SERVICES.

(Kansas City Journal.)

The report of Kansas City's "woman cops" for the last two months seems to vindicate the wisdom of the policy of appointing matrons to handle cases especially involving women and children. Only two arrests were made, but this is only a small part of the work done. The very character of this work shows that in the nature of things men could not have performed these kindly duties nearly so well as the matrons, if at all, and this fact shows that a useful work has been neglected in the past.

For example, there were thirty-two cases handled at the various hospitals where services of one kind of another in the way of help, advice, etc., were rendered. There were twenty-nine cases handled at dance halls and skating rinks, and it need hardly be said that these services were of a more or less urgent and valuable character, probably saving many young girls from falling into evil ways. There were thirty-one travelers assisted, and this field is one possessing many opportunities for service that can hardly be over estimated in their value to those benefited. Nineteen stranded persons were helped, and this feature of the work is peculiarly timely and effective. Seventeen addresses were secured and the seekers guided to them; thirty-nine young girls were aided and eighty-seven children were cared for. A dozen boarding places were investigated and four places of amusement. Twenty-three sick persons were cared for, and there were many other cases of similar character, all testifying to the benefits Kansas City receives in return for the salaries paid to the police matrons.

HANDS WOULD BURN LIKE FIRE

Could Lay Pin in Cracks. Four Long Years of Eczema. Only Relief in Scratching. Used One Set of Cuticura Remedies. Hands Entirely Well.

"I can truthfully say Cuticura Remedies have cured me of four long years of eczema. About four years ago I noticed some little pimples coming on my little finger, and not giving it any attention, it soon became worse and spread all over my hands. If I would have them in water for a long time, they would burn like fire and large cracks would come. I could lay a pin in them. After using all the salves I could think of, I went to three different doctors, but all did me no good. The only relief I got was scratching.

"So after hearing so much about the wonderful Cuticura Remedies, I purchased one complete set, and after using them three days my hands were much better. Today my hands are entirely well, one set being all I used." (Signed) Miss Etta Narber, R. F. D. 2, Spring Lake, Mich., Sept. 26, 1910.

No stronger evidence than this could be given of the success and economy of the Cuticura Remedies in the treatment of torturing, disfiguring humors of the skin. A single hot bath with Cuticura Soap and a gentle anointing with Cuticura Ointment are often sufficient to afford immediate relief in the most distressing cases and permit rest and sleep when all else fails. Cuticura Soap and Ointment are equally effective in preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin, scalp, hair and hands. Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are sold throughout the world. Send to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., sole props., 135 Columbus Ave., Boston, for free Cuticura Booklet on the treatment of skin and scalp troubles.

AT THE MAJESTIC

John Drew This Evening.

At the Majestic theater tonight, Charles Frohman will present John Drew, the brilliant and popular actor, in what is considered his best play of recent years, "Smith," a comedy by W. Somerset Maugham, author of "Lady Frederick," "Jack Straw" and other successful efforts. The piece has had a remarkable vogue in both London and New York. In the latter city it ran for three months to large audiences at the Empire theater, from which house it comes to this city with the complete original cast and scenic equipment. It is said to be not only the best Maugham play yet done in America, but from critical comment elsewhere it seems to be an unusually happy vehicle for Mr. Drew, inasmuch as it affords him an opportunity to score brilliantly in a role thoroughly congenial and at the same time quite at variance with those in which he has latterly been seen. The action of the piece occurs in England, but it might as well have been placed in America, for the reason that it pictures certain phases of social life as common in this country, and as deplorable, it might be added, as they are elsewhere. In a word, the play is a rather bitter arraignment of a lot of heartless, brainless, childless society women, frivolous and bridge mad, who exist in every American city of any size just as they exist in the London suburb which Mr. Maugham has chosen for his locale. The one redeeming figure in the group, aside from Thomas Freeman, the character played by Mr. Drew, is Smith, a country girl of fresh, wholesome mind, a parlor maid, with whom Freeman falls in love. The romance between the two forms one of the most unique and charming love stories yet seen on the stage. In Mr. Drew's supporting company are Mary Boland, Isabel Irving, Sybil Thorndike, Jane Laurel, Morton Selten, Hassard Short and Lewis Casson.

"Madame X" Wednesday Matinee and Night.

The trial scene in "Madame X" has been unanimously voted by the New York critics the most thrilling and moving ever written in any drama. A mother, on trial for killing a rascal who meant to harm the son she had deserted 20 years before, suddenly discovers that the young lawyer whom the court has appointed to defend her, is none other than her own boy. The mother has fallen to the gutter and dare not betray her identity—truly a situation to bring tears to the most callous spectator's eyes. The realism of the whole drama, of which this scene is characteristic, is beyond praise, while the effect of the play baffles the expert to picture in advance. Henry W. Savage will present this sensational triumph at the Majestic on Wednesday matinee and night with a brilliant company, staging the drama exactly as at the Lyric theater, New York.

* * *

"The Broken Idol" Thursday.

"The Broken Idol" will be the attraction at the Majestic theater on Thursday evening.

The chief thing that will appeal is the work of Gus Sholke, who staged the piece, for there are many surprises in chorus work continually cropping out in "The Broken Idol" of his invention, says the Louisville Courier of March 14. The real big and puzzling feature is the finale of the last act in which a big, red-lighted balloon is swung out over the heads of the audience, carrying Grace Lempe, the prima donna, as ballast. It swings out several rows past the orchestra with a graceful motion, at times almost touching the heads of those seated under it and then going swiftly back into the darkness from whence it came with no one being any the wiser as to how Mr. Sholke works the effect. Earlier in the evening Mr. Sholke has the chorus come out of potted plants, playing all sorts of kid-games with one another and running off for just as long a time as it takes to change costumes.

"A Broken Idol" is just a string of farcial situations linked by a thread of several catchy songs delivered by a chorus vocally acceptable. It has the thinnest sort of plot, which only bobs up in the middle of the second act and lets you know that there is really a reason for naming the affair "The Broken Idol." A fortune-hunting lord seeking to marry the daughter of a wealthy American politician takes into his service a "con" man. The daughter has a sweetheart in the person of Jack Mason, a reporter—a good sign that it was truly an honest affair of the heart. The father of the girl, her uncle and the "con" man make a night of it in the Chinatown district of Los Angeles during the New Year's celebration and knock the head of a Chinese god lopsided. The trio leave the quarter under the impression that they have murdered a man. All is righted just before the final curtain, and the English lord, who gains the impression that the father of the girl he wishes to marry has lost all of his money, leaves the field open to the man of her choice.

Nat Philips is taking the role of the "con" man. The impudence of the character and the man's familiarity are characteristics which Mr. Philips brings out forcefully. Jack Wast, as the hen-pecked husband of the rich politician's sister, makes a decidedly good impression in a laughable character. Dorothy Hale makes Sing Wee, the Chinese wife of the "con" man a sympathetic character, and Grace Lampe displays a melodious and sweet voice singing her various songs, which are the most tuneful numbers of the score. Hazel Drake, a handsome brunette, with a fascinating twinkle in her eyes, wears some very striking costumes, and will later on, when she has recovered from a certain stiffness, which comes, no doubt, from inexperience, make a dashing figure as the French dancer. B. M.

Turkey has taken another step forward. The buildings that house the ministry of mines and forests and of agriculture are now lighted by electricity.

IN THE CITY'S CHURCHES

SIXTY TWO AT BANQUET TABLE

Plans Discussed for State Sunday School Convention to Be Held Here.

COMMITTEES NAMED

The meeting of the Fort Wayne Ministerial association Monday afternoon at the Wayne street M. E. church was followed by a banquet given at 6:30 o'clock in the rooms of the church, at which the ministers were joined by their wives and the superintendents of the different Sunday schools of the city and their wives, the purpose of the union meeting and banquet being to discuss affairs in reference to the state Sunday school convention to be held in this city in the early part of June.

There were sixty-two seated at the banquet table and following the feast of good things served by the ladies of the Wayne street M. E. congregation the discussion of the state convention took place. B. J. Griswold presided and talks were made by Rev. C. D. Rarey, Rev. C. Claude Travis, Frank W. Kelsey, Dr. M. A. Mason and A. G. Burry.

Committees were then named for the arrangement of the forthcoming convention, the chairmen of each being as follows: Finance, A. G. Burry; entertainment, F. W. Kelsey; house, Rev. P. J. Alberthus; publicity, B. J. Griswold.

Many Will Be Here.

The convention is expected to be one of the largest held in the state, approaching closely to that held at Indianapolis last year, when 750 delegates were present. Dr. Mason thinks there will be at least 700 here to attend the convention.

An important feature of the convention here will be that in reference to the educational primary department work. Miss Lewis, the state secretary of that department, was here a few weeks ago making the necessary arrangements.

The state secretary of the Indiana Sunday School association, G. N. Burrie, of Indianapolis, will be in the city on April 17 and at that time will meet in consultation with the pastors of the city and the Sunday school superintendents and teachers regarding the state convention.

Ministerial Meeting.

At the meeting of the Ministerial association, which was earlier in the afternoon, the principal paper was read by Rev. C. A. Hirschman, the pastor of the Crescent avenue Evangelical church. His theme was "Immigration." It was ably treated and interesting. The hosts were Rev. A. J. Folsom and Rev. D. Y. Schultz.

A Quilting Bee.

The Bloomingdale and Spy Run divisions of the Ladies' Aid society of the West Jefferson street Church of Christ will have an old fashioned quilting bee on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Queen Brosius, 632 Third street. Luncheon will be prepared at the noon hour. All ladies of the church are invited to attend.

233 WEEKS PER YEAR.

Allen County's Allotment in New Tuberculosis Hospital.

Allen county will be entitled to the equivalent of 233 weeks treatment each year in the new state tuberculosis hospital at Rockville. There are 123 beds in the institution and if room is available the county is entitled to send as many patients as desired, but the allotment of weeks cannot be overdrawn. The allotment of weeks for other northern Indiana counties is as follows: DeKalb, 63; Huntington, 72; Kosciusko, 70; Lagrange, 78; Noble, 60; Steuben, 36; Wells, 56; Whitley, 42.

Parochial Pupils Honor Him On His Birthday.

The seventh and eighth grade scholars of the parochial schools of the St. Patrick's Catholic parish, with the girls of the St. Catherine's academy, honored their pastor, Rev. J. F. Delaney, Sunday with congratulatory speeches and songs and the presentation to him of a beautifully arranged basket of spring flowers. The pleasant event took place in the new lyceum. The welcome and congratulatory speech was made by Miss Marie Goodfellow. The boys sang a chorus. The entire study class then recited a poem entitled "The Healing of Jarius' Daughter," and Miss Marguerite Flick made the presentation of the basket of blossoms.

CHURCH DEDICATED

Worship Begun in New Edifice at Steubenville.

The exercises incident to the dedication of the new Methodist Episcopal church at Steubenville Sunday were of an interesting character and the attendance was large. Dr. W. D. Parr, formerly of this city, now engaged in church and educational work at large, conducted the service and preached the sermon.

The building is a handsome one, costing $2,500. Of this amount all but $800 had been contributed previous to the dedication and this latter amount was secured Sunday, so that worship begins in the new church with the congregation free from debt on the building.

At the services Sunday the Pleasant Lake and Hamilton orchestras furnished the instrumental music. The pastor of the church is Rev. Mr. Morrison, who has been efficient in his pastoral work and indefatigable in his efforts for the new edifice.

NEW BUILDING TO BE ERECTED.

Will Be Occupied by the Fort Wayne Printing Company.

A deal was closed Monday between John Wilding, manager of the Fort Wayne Printing company, and Max B. and S. S. Fisher in which the two latter gentlemen agreed to erect during this year a four-story concrete building with basement, which will be equal to another story, on the property occupied by the Sauerteig bakery and adjoining residence on Washington boulevard west, the building to be occupied by the Fort Wayne Printing company.

The present quarters of the Fort Wayne Printing company on East Main street are too small to accomodate the growing business of the concern. The need of larger quarters was felt and as the result the deal was closed. The new building will be 160 feet long and 60 feet wide, with a floor space of 45,000 square feet. It will be of the most modern construction throughout and will be built especially for the printing, bindery and mail order business. It will be excellently lighted by windows upon all sides, and will give the company one of the finest printing shops in this section of the country.

New Law Regarding Child Labor Affects Messenger Service.

Managers of telegraph offices and messenger service companies in Fort Wayne say that in all probability the new law regarding child labor will affect them seriously, as it will also interfere with a number of manufacturing enterprises where child labor is employed. The law not only prohibits the employment of any child under the age of 14, but decrees that those under 16 years shall not be employed before 7 o'clock in the morning, after 6 o'clock in the evening, and not more than eight hours per day.

SENTINEL WANT ADS ALWAYS GET RESULTS.

WILL RECRUIT UP TO WAR STRENGTH

Orders Come to Bring Battery B to Fighting Footing.

WILL A CALL COME?

What is believed to be positive information was received by The Sentinel this morning that Captain Clark, of Battery B, has received orders to recruit the battery up to the minimum war strength of 130 odd men, and that three additional orders, the contents of which are not known, had also been received. Admission was also made that two horseshoers and two cooks were needed in the battery and would be recruited at the earliest possible moment, a fact in itself that gives rise to the belief that preparations are being made for the battery to leave for the Mexican border or for some other point at an early date, otherwise the battery would need neither the cooks or horseshoers.

Captain Clark when interviewed by The Sentinel this morning at first denied that he had received any orders, but later an assertion that he had nothing for publication took on the aspect of a practical admission that orders had been received, but that they could not be disclosed.

Inspection is Postponed.

Captain Clark received notice a few days ago that the United States inspection to be held on April 14, by regular army officers, had been postponed until April 22. Officers of the battery have asserted that the overhauling of arms and equipment has been in preparation for the inspection, a fact that would lead to the belief that if the inspection had been postponed the activity would cease for a time. This, however, is not the case, as the activity at the battery's armory seems to be increasing if anything, and instruction in dismantling the recoil mechanism of the guns was given at the regular drill Monday night.

What the contents of the three orders, in addition to the one to recruit the battery up to the minimum war strength are, ca nonly be surmised, but every move that is being made by the local battery indicates that orders have been received to be in readiness to entrain at instant notice, and the general belief prevails among the men that they are to leave at an early date. The general feeling that the bttery will be called out is materially aiding in securing recruits and many applications are being received, several men having been enlisted Monday night.

TOLD OF A MASSACRE.

In a Lecture a Philippine Survivor Gives History.

(Chicago Record-Herald.)

How seventy American soldiers were massacred by Filippinos at Balangiga, on Lamar Island, in the Philippines, September 28, 1901, nas been told for the first time in Chicago by Dr. George E. Meyers, one of the three survivors, at a meeting of Camp Luzon No. 1, Ary of the Philippines, last evening.

"My company had been called to Balangiga at the request of the village president," said Doctor Meyers. "We had been there several weeks and everything had been quiet until the fatal morning, when hundreds of the brown men rushed on us from the church, where they had congregated, upon the tolling of the signal bell.

"We sounded a rallying cry and all that was left of our company gathered, and in a few minutes we had cleared the town of natives by pouring lead into them from our Krags.

"At the close of the engagement but twenty-two out of the company of seventy were alive, and only nine were able to use rifles. Every man had been stabbed or shot by the treacherous natives. The blowing conch shells in the hills behind the village warned us that they were gathering for another attack, and we gathered up the wounded, loaded them in dugouts and started for the nearest post, which was fifty miles away."

Doctor Meyers told of the rescue of the flag by a party of four, in which two were killed and the hardships of the long row, which lasted until the next morning.

HOLIDAY FOR TEACHERS.

Teachers in the city and country schools of Allen county will be given a holiday on April 6, 7 and 8 in order to give them an opportunity to attend the state teachers' convention which will be held at Indianapolis, and as a result the schools will be closed for these three days. By a decision of the township trustees the teachers will be allowed full pay for the three days, providing they attend the convention, and in case they do not attend they will not be paid for the time.

PAUPERS OFFERED AT AUCTION

The "culture" of the Finlanders is not incompatible, it would seem, with an institution that savors strongly of the old slave markets of ancient Rome and the orient of more recent days. According to the account of a local newspaper, the Finish poor law system puts up able-bodied paupers at auction, displaying them in the market place, where they are examined by employers of labor desirous of finding cheap workmen. The bidding works downward, the authorities handing over to the lowest bidder the chosen pauper, for the person acquiring the right to his labor receives an allowance from the authorities for his upkeep, the amount being that of the "lowest tender."—St. Petersburg Letter to London Standard.

Owing to a number of accidents which have been caused in the streets and on street cars by the long hatpins worn by women, the Budapest police are carrying on an active crusade against this part of fashionable headgear. At first they tried prosecuting the wearers, but this proved so tedious and costly a procedure that it has been abandoned. The police are now instructed to stop any woman wearing projecting hatpins without protectors, and confiscate the offending articles on the spot as endangering the public safety. About one thousand two hundred hatpins have already been seized in this way and are now preserved in the police museum.

YOU MAY FEEL INCLINED TO HAVE A VERY early look at the new spring styles in clothes, even if you are not ready to buy any; it pays a man to take enough interest in what he wears to know what other men are going to wear. Hart Schaffner & Marx new Spring styles are here and ready to show to any man who wants to look at them. One thing you'll be impressed with when you look at them, and that is, the thorough way in which we have prepared to supply every need of every man in this community, in the matter of clothes; not only a great variety of attractive fabrics, colors, patterns, weaves; but all the new style creations by these greatest of all clothes makers; and plenty of them.

We'd like to have you know why we make so much of a feature of Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes. It is partly because of what we know about them. They're not the only clothes that are made of all-wool fabrics; but they're the only clothes you're sure of. They're not the only clothes that have style, and good tailoring, but you know they have these, and you don't know of any other clothes that you're quite so sure of.

The point is, that the name Hart Schaffner & Marx touches a responsive note in the minds of so many men, a note that we want to sound, that we twang that string a good deal.

There's more reason than ever for making that kind of a noise about our store; for the clothes are fine; and you'll say it when you see them.

SEATTLE TO BUILD ITS OWN CAR LINE

City to Operate Traction System That Will Cost About $800,000.

HAS A POWER PLANT

Seattle, Wash., March 21.—One of the first acts of the new city administration that went into effect last week will be to advertise for sale $800,000 in bonds for the construction of a municipal street car line. Then will begin the most extensive experiment in public-owned surface lines since Tom Johnson's attempt at Cleveland.

With the $800,000 the city proposes to construct and operate a thirteen-mile trunk line from Ballard, one of its northernmost wards, to the Ranier valley, in the south end, crossing the central business part at a strategic point and intersecting all the existing lines of the Seattle Electric company, a Boston-owned corporation.

More strictly speaking, the city will not build the three miles through the middle of town, but instead will join the Seattle Electric company and use a section of its tracks by virtue of a common-user clause in its franchise.

Cost of $45,000 a Mile.

To construct the ten miles of double-track line it is estimated will cost $45,000 a mile. Thirty cars will be operated over the line in the beginning, $240,000 being set aside for their purchase. This leaves $110,000 of the bond issue to be used for incidentals and to start the plant in operation.

This elaborate experiment in municipally owned street car systems was made possible for Seattle by a series of apparently unrelated events. First, the completion of the Cedar river water and power plants showed the municipality to possess 14,000 available horsepower of electric current, much more than it will need for its lighting system for years to come, and able to increase the quantity to 20,000 horsepower by the installation of additional generators. This, in itself, was almost sufficient temptation for any city to branch out into the transportation business.

Then along came woman's suffrage. A month ago the women joined their husbands in a recall election, retired Mayor Hiram Gill and his open-town policy and substituted George W. Dilling, pledged to a clean town and a businesslike administration.

Near-Commission Government.

A week or two later some new charter provisions went into effect under which a near-commission form of government with nine councilmen-at-large is provided for. Seattle's neighbor, Tacoma, has the full Des Moines plan, but Seattle adopted a half-way system.

Then, a week ago, the state legislature passed a public utilities bill under which the Seattle Electric company can be forced to exchange transfers with the proposed city line, and make other concessions. City Engineer Reginald H. Thomson and State Senator George W. Cotterill, a prominent civil engineer, were alert enough to see the opportunity.

An ordinance submitting the bond plan was submitted to the old council, many of whom were candidates for the new council chairs; it passed, and at the election was carried by a vote of almost two to one.

Seattle is definitely launched on a municipal ownership program, under what seems to be highly favorable circumstances, and her results will probably demonstrate one way or the other the feasibility of the scheme in the present day American city of medium size.

HAIR INSURANCE

INSURANCE AGAINST PREMATURELY GRAY HAIR.

In these up-to-date days, it is possible to purchase insurance on anything. Insurance is, practically, taking a chance, with the chances figured largely in favor of those issuing the insurance—not those who buy it. Hair insurance is different, in that the one buying the insurance obtains full value at the outset, with correspondingly increased values for the greater amount bought; while the sellers of this insurance are likely to lose unless the purchasers obtain full value at once.

This applies to Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, for if it does not do exactly what is claimed for it, the sales would naturally drop off; whereas if it gives satisfaction the increased sales give it the only chance to be successful. However, Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy does "make good," as evidenced by its daily increasing sales. Druggists say that this preparation gives the best satisfaction of any hair remedy ever sold. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is clean and wholesome and perfectly harmless. It removes dandruff, strengthens the hair, gives new life to dull or parched hair, and gradually restores gray hair to natural color.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle and is recommended and sold by

Meyer Bros. Co., Four Drug Stores.

INSPECTOR PIATT HOME.

Federal Official Has Been at Work in Kentucky.

Postoffice Inspector Piatt, has just returned to the city from Kentucky, where he has been attending the trials of a number of cases which he developed during his assignment to that territory prior to coming to Fort Wayne. The inspector expects to now be able to devote practically all his time to duties in the Fort Wayne district.

Several of the cases with which Inspector Piatt has recently had to deal have come from Breathitt county, famous for its feuds and its general turbulence. They were classed as fraud cases, involving the use of the mails in improper manner. Inspector Piatt says that private parties adopted the names of fictitious business enterprises and ordered merchandise for which they never intended to pay, giving at the same time names of fictitious banking enterprises as reference for credit. Half a dozen cases of this character are now in process of trial there.

TRAIN BIRDS TO FISH.

The Hound of the Water is the Chinese Cormorant.

(Rev. Julius Saunders in the Pathfinder.)

Without exception I consider the cormorant fishers as the most unique and interesting sight I have ever witnessed in China, after a residence of nearly twenty-five years. The Chinese have a great partiality for fish; fish and fowls are practically the only source of meat food they have. Their fish are almost invariably sold in a live state, kept in tanks of fresh water after being caught. A Chinaman considers the European and American custom of keeping dead fish, either with or without ice, for a considerable period before cooking as disgusting and dangerous to health.

Notwithstanding the teeming population of China the rivers and canals are usually full of fish. Many methods of taking them alive are in use, but the most novel is that by means of cormorants. The cormorant is an awkward bird closely allied to the pelicans. These birds are admirably built for rapid swimming under water. They are slim in front like a boat, their web feet are very powerful, and under water they even use their wings as oars to help them so that they can overtake all but the very swiftest fish. They can also fly well and they are among the few web footed birds that can perch firmly on a limb.

The Chinese fishermen take the cormorants when young and teach them to fish. A metal ring is placed round the bird's throat. This is large enough not to choke the bird and small enough to prevent him from swallowing a fish when he catches it. When the birds are well trained, they do not need the ring, as they are as faithful and obedient as the finest bird dog.

The fisherman operates on a raft or float made of bamboo. His birds sit along the cage, as sober as deacons, squawking and complaining, but not attempting to escape. On their names being called out by their master they dive into the water and soon return to the surface with a fish in their mouth.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

What the Sentinel Had to Say About Persons and Events Twenty-Five Years Ago.

The pigeons have an extensive roost in the attic of the court house.

The old parsonage of St. Paul's Catholic church has been abolished. It was a familiar landmark.

Mr. John George Strodel, of West Main street, is urged to run for councilman in the Ninth ward.

The Nickel Plate railroad runs an excursion from this place to the Findlay, O., gas fields tomorrow.

From present indications the republicans in the Third ward are making a strong yet quiet fight against the reelection of Mr. Henry Read.

Dr. W. W. Barnett has been released from the pest house, where he was caring for a smallpox patient, and is visiting in Columbia City and Butler.

Martin Gross, of the Pittsburg freight house, will leave tonight for New York. His brother, who has been attending a college of pharmacy, will return with him.

Abraham J. Kesler, George C. Stemen and Joseph E. Stults, recent graduates of the Fort Wayne Medical college, have taken out the necessary papers entitling them to practice medicine in this state.

The walking match at Monroeville between Lehneke, of Arcola, and Engle, of Monroeville, which was commenced at 7 o'clock Tuesday morning, was terminated at 8:30 Wednesday night by the failure of Engle to appear for his fifty-third half-mile. The match was for $25, one hundred half miles to be walked in one hundred consecutive half hours.

The Twelfth district republican congressional committee met at the residence of Capt. F. H. Bernard yesterday afternoon and decided to hold the next convention at Kendallville, but did not name the date. There were present at the meeting: Will Wilson, of Allen; J. A. Provines, of DeKalb; Hon. J. S. Drake, Lagrange; Thomas M. Eells, of Noble, and W. H. Liggett, of Whitley.

SOCIETY

Mrs. E. N. Van Buskirk, of South Broadway, has issued invitations to a bridge party she will give on Saturday afternoon.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Miller, of West Main street, were most agreeably surprised last evening by a company of ladies and gentlemen who were aware of the fact that it was the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Miller. The callers were made welcome in a cordial manner and invited to make themselves at home and enjoy the evening, which all did. Baskets of toothsome eatables were opened after a game of cards and the "spread" did justice to all. Mrs. Miller was presented with a handsome gift for use in her dining room by the ladies. There were thirty in the party.

Egypta Rehearsals.

Pedestrians in the vicinity of the city hall last night were attracted by the waves of melody that flooded the neighborhood. Investigation proved it to be the great festival chorus of adult singers busily rehearsing for Egypta. Tonight the study of dramatic action will begin. The participants in the opera and the public school children have been given tickets to sell at 50 cents apiece, exchangeable at the reserve sale for coupons for seats in the balcony and a section of lower floor. Other portions of lower floor will be 25 and 50 cents extra.

Miss May Hogan, of Valparaiso, is visiting relatives here.

Miss Mary Freeman, of Louisville, Ky., is visiting her mother, Mrs. Julia Freeman, of Spy Run avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Pixley and Miss Louise Pixley have returned from a trip of some weeks in Florida.

The East End Embroidery club will meet tomorrow afternoon with Mrs. Summers, 1428 East Lewis street.

Miss Evelyn Fisher, of West Berry street, has returned from a visit with relatives in Indianapolis.

Mrs. Thomas Greer, of Taylor street, will entertain the Up-to-Date Thimble club on Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan G. Stager, of East Wayne street, left on Sunday for a five weeks' trip to Pasadena, Cal., to visit Mr. Stager's mother.

Mrs. Warner Gardner, formerly Miss Hazel Straight of this city, is the guest of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Alexander, of West Jefferson street.

Miss Pearl Getty, of Chicago, has returned home after a week's visit with her cousin, Miss Celeste Hoffman, 2333 Force street.

Members of the College Woman's club are urged to attend the meeting on Thursday at the home of Miss Jessie Orr, 624 West Wayne street, at 4 o'clock.

Elmer Wunderlin, of Clay street, celebrated his sixteenth birth anniversary Sunday by entertaining a few friends. Games, music and a supper were all enjoyed very much.

Miss Muriel Noll entertained the Quo Vadis club at her home, 2110 Hanna street, last evening. A delicious luncheon was served. Miss Ruth Duffy will be the next hostess.

Mrs. Samuel R. Taylor, of Clinton street, has returned from a three weeks' stay in Indianapolis with her brother, H. F. Houghton and family. Mrs. Taylor is somewhat improved in health, though not entirely recovered.

Mrs. Arthur S. Bland has gone to Youngstown, O., to visit her mother and her sister, Mrs. Herbert Wilkinson. From Youngstown Mrs. Bland will go to Chicago to live as Mr. Bland has been transferred to that city.

Mrs. Stephen B. Fleming has returned from visits in Washington, D. C., with her parents, Capt. and Mrs. Dougall, and with her daughters in Georgetown, who are attending school there.

Miss Myrtle Graeter will entertain a few friends this evening in honor of Misses Jennie and Gertrude Simmons, who are to leave this week for Oklahoma to live. The guests will be members of a society of young ladies of Westminster church.

Mrs. Norah B. Hughes has been entertaining her son, Herbert, for a couple of days preparatory to his leaving for Paris, France, where he will again represent the Packard Automobile company of Detroit. Mr. Hughes spent some months in Paris within two years and expects to remain much longer this time.

Theodore F. Ruhland, of Minneapolis, has accepted an excellent position with an insurance company of South Bend and has begun his work there. Mr. Ruhland's family will join him shortly. This will please the many friends in this city of the Ruhland family as visits from them can be much more frequent than when they were so far away.

A merry company, all bent on doing a kindly act, gathered at the Allen County Orphans' home at 1 o'clock today to do two things. One was a luncheon contributed from the well filled baskets which the members of the Children's Ward association of Hope hospital took along and then paid twenty-five cents for eating in order to add to the treasury of the charity. The second act was to sew rags for the making of rugs, which will be sold for the same benefit. The home was just the right kind of a meeting place on account of the large rooms and much was accomplished.

Miss Elizabeth Rogier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Rogier, of West Wayne street, celebrated her thirteenth birth anniversary on Saturday evening by entertaining friends in a delightful way. The rooms were decorated in green ribbons, Irish flags, green candles and shamrocks. Irish potatoes, stuck full of tiny green flags, were suspended from the chandeliers by green ribbons. On the white birthday cake thirteen green candles, surrounded by little shamrock leaves, were burning when the guests sat down to supper. On the table were white candles tied with green bows and in each cup of ice cream a tiny flag waved its green symbols. Baskets of candy were given the children and shamrocks trimmed the baskets. There were many pretty and novel games for amusement. Prizes were won by Helen Hackius, Lucile Stonebruner, LeVerne Scott and Margaret Ann Keegan. Other guests were Katherine Lehman, Katherine Kampe, Helen Freiburger, Alice Rice, Katherine Dannecker, Eleanor Wilson, Mabel Vernon, Dorothy Lewis, Dorothea Fox, Marjorie Daily, Adah Gumpper, Sue, Marie and Karl Allendorf. Mrs. Rogier was assisted during the hours of the party by her daughters, Mrs. Lewis Allendorf and Miss Isabelle Rogier and by Misses Maude Eckelberry, Lucile House and Lola Eckles.

A Country Party.

There was a pleasant gathering on March 17 at the home of "Grandma" Doyle, as it was the eighty-sixth anniversary of her birth. The previous day to Mrs. Doyle's birthday was the fifty-eighth anniversary of her arrival in Allen county to live. She still lives on the farm where she first made her home. The guests at the birth anniversary party were J. F. Grover, of Lisbon Falls, Maine; Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Thomas and their guest, Miss Nellie Metcalf, of Akron, Ohio; Mrs. L. Green and daughter, Minnie, O. J. Pond and Julia Lowrey.

PRETTY SKIRT FOR SUMMER WEAR.

BY MRS. JANE FORD.

781

5 SIZES 22 TO 30 WAIST

A specially attractive skirt model suitable for developing embroideries or bordered materials is shown in the drawing. It is very simple and easy to make and if carried out as represented requires only three yards of thirty-six inch plain goods, with three and five-eighths yards of flouncing fifteen inches wide and two and three-quarter yards of insertion about two inches wide. Dresses of bordered goods and of embroidery are very fashionable this season and such materials are displayed in shops at almost any price one wishes to pay. Lovely bordered lawns and batiste can be had from eighteen to seventy-five cents a yard. Embroideries go a little higher, but if the plain goods is bought by the yard and the flouncing and insertion separately it will make the skirt less expensive than if the very deep flouncing is used, and there would be no special advantage in employing the latter, as it is necessary to cut it in order to shape the skirt.

Those who wish to copy this skirt will find it very easy to make. The upper part is plain and straight, shaped to the waist and over the hips by small tucks, stitched yoke depth. It is closed invisibly at the center back and can be finished at the waist with a narrow belt or joined to a matching blouse with a strip of insertion. The insertion on the skirt is placed just above the stitching of the deep tuck and the material cut from under it. The joining of the flounce to the skirt is concealed by the tuck, which gives it a special pretty finish. If bordered goods is employed, sufficient of the border to make the flounce must be cut from the goods fifteen inches deep, even though the actual border is not that depth. The strip used for the inserted band can be arranged any width that looks well.

A waist suitable to combine with this skirt would be one showing small tucks and bands of embroidery at the yoke and sleeve. It could have the body and sleeves cut in one, which is very fashionable just now, or it could be made with a regular sleeve. The neck could be cut slightly low and either rounded or squared, and the sleeves should have the square cut at the lower edge and finish in elbow or seven-eighths length.

Cotton voile, which is used a great deal this spring, would be exceedingly pretty made after this skirt model and with a waist such as described. Turkish crochet lace makes a most effective trimming and is not expensive. A white cotton voile would be pretty with a flounce and band of the same material in a contrasting color and the waist should be trimmed to correspond.

World Famed Eggs

By Jeannette Young Norton.

Eggs were held in great veneration by the scientists in ancient days, for to them they represented an emblem of the world. The shell typified the earth, the white the water, the yoke the fire, and under the skin at the end nestled the bubble of air. Eggs contain probably more nourishment for their volume than any other article of food, which may account for their worldwide popularity, each nation adapting them to their own use in connection with their national dishes and in numberless ways.

The traveler discovering them here and there in more or less unfamiliar guise secures the coveted recipe and bears it to his famous club cook, and behold! a sensation is created in the gastronomic world and the wraiths of touch, taste and smell carry the news abroad. The cosmopolitan city has a new addition to its menu until it seems the old world can have but little left to give the new in the way of novelty.

Eggs in Disguise.

Boiled, fried and scrambled the egg seems to be the best known to all nations, subject to the disguise of many add sauces, as the recipes below will show the reader. In the hottest climates the eggs seem to be the most highly seasoned and the dishes most complicated, while the cooler the countries the simpler and less highly seasoned are the dishes prepared by the famous cooks.

German Eggs.

Delicately fry one slice of Westphalia ham, then mince it fine; break six fresh eggs and beat together, then scramble together with the ham; season to taste and serve with rye bread toast.

Wash and carefully boil two quarts of spinach, chop fine, drain and make a rich cream sauce for it; poach as many eggs as there are guests, mix the sauce with the spinach and lay the eggs on the top.

French Eggs.

Boil six eggs hard, strip off the shells, cut in quarters and arrange on a dish. Make a sauce after this recipe: Take a half of a quarter pound of fresh butter and a tablespoonful of flour, stir over the fire until it thickens, pour in slowly a pint of milk, which should be boiling, add the seasoning, boil five minutes, add the rest of the butter and a tablespoonful of minced parsley. Squeeze the juice of a half a lemon over the eggs and pour the sauce over them; serve garnished with the parsley.

Butter a dish thickly with good butter, let it heat until the butter melts, break four eggs into it and sprinkle with white pepper and salt, laying thin slices of butter on top of each eggs; put the dish in the oven and let remain until the whites are set but not hard and serve quickly; garnish with parsley.

English Eggs.

Put one pint of water, a teaspoonful of salt and four teaspoonfuls of vinegar into a frying pan and bring to a boil; break four eggs into separate cups, then turn them carefully into the boiling mixture without breaking the yolks; when poached lift onto a hot platter and have ready a sauce made of a half gill of cream, an ounce of butter, pepper, salt and a pinch of sugar; serve at once.

Scotch Eggs.

Boil six eggs for ten minutes and when cold strip from the shell and roll them in a good force meat and fry in very hot lard; drain and lay on the platter and turn around them a pint of rich brown gravy.

Russian Eggs.

On delicate slices of toast spread a layer of caviar and place a fresh poached eggs on top; pepper, salt and a few drops of lemon juice are added and a garnish of parsley; serve at once.

Turkish Eggs.

Boil six kidneys and six chicken livers and hearts with an onion and a spice bag, throwing off the water six times. Make a rich brown sauce, adding a little wine, and add the kidneys; pour on a hot platter and place as many carefully poached eggs over the top as there are guests.

Norwegian Eggs.

Place on a platter large flakes of smoked salmon, scramble six eggs in butter, season and spread over the top of the salmon; serve hot.

Hungarian Eggs.

Arrange hard boiled eggs and cold boiled potatoes in alternate lays in a pudding dish, with butter, pepper and salt, and pour over the top sour cream enough to just cover the ingredients. Bake a delicate brown.

Spanish Omelet.

Cut three slices of bacon into dice and fry a delicate brown, then ...d two sliced tomatoes, one onion minced, six sliced mushrooms, pepper and salt. Stir and cook ten minutes. Break six eggs into a bowl, beat lightly with a fork. Put a small lump of butter into the omelet pan, and when hot pour in the eggs and shake gently until set, then turn on the other mixture and fold the omelet and serve quickly.

Irish Eggs.

On delicately broiled slices of bacon poached eggs are placed and covered with a rich cream sauce.

American Eggs.

Needless to say that the best known egg dish of the country is the fried egg served with fried ham, though the best known dishes of other nations find their way to all the menus of the best hotels and restaurants.

RECIPES.

Eggs, Indian Style

Chop fine one medium sized onion, put in a frying pan with one tablespoonful of butter and cook very slowly until golden brown. Stir in one teaspoonful of curry powder and cook slowly for five minutes. Add one tablespoonful of flour and when brown stir in gradually one and one-quarter cupfuls of stock. When thick and smooth add one tablespoonful of dessicated cocoanut, one tablespoonful of chutney and one-half of a teaspoonful of salt. Add one teaspoonful of lemon juice and simmer ten minutes. Cut half a dozen thin slices of bread into circles or squares and fry a golden brown on both sides. Poach six eggs, trim off the ragged edges and lay one on each piece of fried bread; pour the sauce over them and serve at once.

Gateau De Riz.

One heaping tablespoonful powdered gelatine, three tablespoonfuls of water, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, two cupfuls of milk, two ounces of ground rice, half a cupful of raspberry puree, few drops of red coloring. Grind the rice and mix it into a smooth paste with a little of the milk, then put the remainder into a saucepan to heat. When warm, add ground rice and stir over the fire until boiling. Add sugar and cook for a few minutes, stirring all the time. Remove the saucepan from the fire and add the raspberry puree, which has been made by rubbing preserved raspberries through a sieve. Dissolve gelatine with the water and strain it into the other mixture. Color with a few drops of red coloring and pour into a mold which has been rinsed out with cold water. Serve with cream or custard sauce.

CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Dodez, of 345 West Wayne street, were married in Ohio fifty years ago today. It had been the intention of Mr. and Mrs. Dodez, who have lived in Fort Wayne since 1863, to have a social gathering at their home in honor of this golden anniversary, but as neither of them is well or strong just now it is not possible for them to entertain. Many friends have called, however, and there has been an impromptu "at home" in spite of poor health, while many flowers and remembrances as well as the presence of many old friends have contributed to the joy of Mr. and Mrs. Dodez. Mr. and Mrs. Dodez's nearest relatives are their son, Dr. E. Wright Dodez, and family, and a grandson, William Nutting, who after the death of his parents made his home entirely with his grandparents until he was graduated from the Fort Wayne High school and from Purdue university. Mr. Nutting now lives in New York and pursues his work as mechanical engineer and in editing a magazine published by a motor boat company. E. W. Dodez, D. D. S., with his wife and three children have a handsome home on the Leesburg road. G. C. Dodez served over two years in the civil war, or until he was physically unable to do longer service. He is a republican of pronounced opinions and party loyalty. Mrs. Dodez's family name was Helen Keterer. She is a sister of Mrs. Mary Smyser, who lives with her daughter, Mrs. W. A. Bohn, and another sister of the family was the late Mrs. Sol Bash. Both Mr. and Mrs. Dodez are Presbyterians and have been long connected with the work of Westminster church. They own a large and comfortable home where they live and the cordiality and sincerity of their greeting leaves no room for doubt of their hospitality and friendship.

F. J. Schwanz and J. W. Loney, pipefitters and members of the union, have just completed a visit to the other Wabash shops on the Eastern division, including Delray, Montpelier and Detroit, in the interest of the craft. They report the conditions of the pipefitters union in those places satisfactory.

Secret of Charming Rosy Complexions.

"Making complexions beautiful is not nearly so difficult a matter as most women suppose," says Mrs. Mae Martyn in the New York American. "Using the right beauty preparation is the main thing.

"Any woman who wishes to appear really charming and beautiful must taboo the powder box. Powder is bad, very bad for the skin. It clogs the pores, roughens the skin and encourages sallowness. To get rid of that shiny, greasy, rough, unattractive look, apply to the face, neck and arms, rubbing gently until dry, an inexpensive lotion made by dissolving four ounces of spurmax in one-half pint hot water, adding two teaspoonfuls glycerine.

"This lotion is the best skin whitener and beautifyer I have ever seen. It does not rub off as easy as powder, doesn't show, but produces that natural, clear, clean, wholesome look."

OLDTIME STAINS.

To stain floors a very dark brown in imitation of old oak was a deep-seated economy. A dark flooring keeps its freshness much longer than one which is lightly varnished. Half a pound of glue was first dissolved very slowly in a couple of quarts of water. This was then mixed with three-quarters of an ounce of aniline brown and a quarter of an ounce of bicarbonate of potash which had been previously dissolved in half a breakfast cup full of water. This was then applied while very hot, and the floor varnished after the coating of stain was dry.

Patent leather shoes were luxuries which were costly, and, moreover, had to last their owner many a Sunday and feast day.

To polish them the old-fashioned housewife preferred to make her own mixture, beginning by melting 1½ ounces of white wax in 4 ounces of olive oil, and then adding 1 ounce of spirits of turpentine and 1 ounce of oil of lavendar.

STOGIE BOOSTER PASSES OUT TIP

Suggests That Fort Wayne Ought to Get Behind Claude Varnell.

BIG OPENING STUNT

"Look what they are doing here. Help our Claude. L. G."

This terse suggestion is written on a copy of a letter that has been sent out by William Somerfield, chairman of the Wheeling boosters' committee asking merchants to use part of their advertising space in the Wheeling newspapers to boom opening day at the Stogie ball yard.

L. G. stands for Louis Gundling, known to his friends as "Loule," and a warm personal friend of the Fort Wayne owner and a baseball fan of the variety willing at all times to dig down and kick in with a few kopecs to keep the national pastime on a paying basis.

Gundling was here on a visit one time with Walter Conway and he made a number of acquaintances. He is a haberdasher in his native town and an enterprising fellow who takes a keen interest in all sorts of athletics.

Of course Varnell will share in the booster day receipts at Wheeling as his club will begin baseballing there on the championship grind. It is proposed to sell 2,500 tickets at a dollar a throw, split the money with the clubs and use the balance in buying a good player to strengthen the Stogie output.

This means that the Fort Wayne club will cut in half on every general admission that is deposited at the gate and the free list will be entirely suspended and nobody admitted free except the players, the umpire and the groundkeeper.

Claude Varnell has never encouraged the boosting idea very much although he was thoroughly grateful for the big delegation sent to South Bend last summer. He profited to the extent of about $900 but the appreciation of his efforts to furnish good baseball was worth as much to him as the cash.

He has three ambitions in baseball. One of them is to draw the biggest opening day crowd, another is to top the other teams in attendance figures and the third is to win a pennant. He is in baseball as a business enterprise and thus far it has not been a profitable one for him. He has said repeatedly that he is satisfied to break even because he likes the sport and excitement of running a ball team and in this he is in earnest because he has swallowed his losses without a murmur and has come back as strong after an unprofitable year as most owners would after finishing with a big balance on the right side.

Last summer a booster day was proposed under the guise of a testimonial to Jimmy Burke and the question was put to Varnell. He did not just exactly turn it down, but he didn't encourage it and nothing ever came of it. He wanted to know what to expect in baseball under favorable conditions, because he expects to stick with the Fort Wayne franchise and he thought it good business policy to find this out.

He argues that a booster day is a good thing in a town where the sport is either dead or dying, but he figures the Fort Wayne baseball public as a live one and he believes that he has indicated his willingness and ability to supply good baseball and can count on as good as an even break from now on with the probability that he can get a little profit under normal conditions.

Booster days are good, but they are generally followed by a depression that takes away the profit to the home club and maybe this is the reason Varnell has never encouraged the idea. His policy is to give good entertainment and rely upon the sporting public to give good patronage in return.

DONAHUE MAY BE LEADER OF TEAM

Either He or Murray Will Be Field Captain at Grand Rapids.

AFTER NEW PLAYERS

Grand Rapids, Mich., March 21.—Unless Dr. Harley Parker finds an old leaguer who has had some experience as a field leader either Frank Donahue or Sandy Murray will be captain of the Grand Rapids club this season. Donahue is the favorite for the position, as he is credited with a good knowledge of inside baseball.

Third Baseman Pendry is another player whom Manager Parker thinks very well of and may also consider for the captaincy. Should the little fellow play the ball for Grand Rapids that he has played in the past for the Zanesville club of the Central league and the Omaha club of the Western league, he will be one of the stars of the team. The only question about his ability to make good lies in the condition of his throwing arm. It was in bad shape last season.

Satisfied now that he has signed a sufficient number of youngsters for tryouts, Manager Parker is now on the lookout for about three experienced players from teams of the two major leagues. He has been watching the work of the recruits of the two Chicago major league teams for the first sign of weakness on the part of any of the former minor league stars who are not ripe for the swell society gait just yet. He expects to sign at least two of the Cub discards and one or two from the White Sox. The new owner of the Grand Rapids team is strong for young players.

Manager Parker left for Chicago last night for a short stay. Before he returns to the city he may make a trip south to personally appeal to Managers Chance and Duffy for several men whom he has in mind as not yet ripe for the majors, but who should be very valuable performers in the Central league and with the year's seasoning return to the fast set and make good.

A week from next Monday Manager Parker expects a sufficient number of his players to be on hand for a practice game at Ramona Athletic park, a few local players being called on to fill out the nine teams if there should be any [illegible] day and Sunday the fans will have their first chance to see the Parker-Dunham [illegible] a real game pitted against the Cadillac champions of the Michigan State league.

During the time his men are working out before the regular season of practice games begins the doors will be thrown open to the fans with an invitation to all to come out and look the boys over. Orders to thirty-two men in all to report here not later than April 3 have been sent out.

Manager Parker plans on making the opening of the Central league season in Grand Rapids this year the most notable in the baseball history of the city. Mayor Ellis will be invited to pitch the first ball with President-elect O'Keefe of East Grand Rapids behind the bat. The gallery of celebrities will not end with the battery workers, however, but will also consist of a high-class infield.

The new spring patterns in Manhattan shirts are in at the Patterson-Fletcher Co. store.

DID BRILLIANT WORK.

[Pittsburg Dispatch.]

Max Carey did brilliant work in left garden for the yannigans, and his throw to first after catching Gibson's fly in the sixth, completing a double play on Wilson, was marvelously quick and accurate, drawing warm praise from Manager Clarke, who seldom comments favorably upon the work of the youngsters when anybody is listening.

IS CUTTING OUT THE SALIVA

RUSSELL FORD.

Athens, Ga., March 21.—Is Russell Ford, premier spit ball pitcher of the New York Americans and the second greatest exponent of the damp fling in the country, planning to give up the delivery which brought him to fame in a single season? This is a question of some moment to scribes and members of the Yankee team in training here.

For some time Ford has been practicing a dry curve. That the man who has more styles of spit ball delivery than any other is preparing against the time when he must cast his saliva floaters aside as many others have done, is the general opinion. Ford says he has no idea of discarding the spit ball this year, or next, but just the same he is putting in several hours a day perfecting a dry curve, and hopes to have it down pat by the time the season opens.

With a mark of 2,700 to shoot at the second flight of bowlers entered in the Tri-State Bowling tourney will start at 7:30 tonight and the opening rounds in the doubles and singles will be bowled.

Last night's high mark was shot by the Fort Wayne Printing company five and the best individual work was done by Carl Thieme who finished with 234 in his final effort and landed an average of an even 200 for his series.

High individual mark for the first night went to Heffman of the Rub-No-Mores, who landed 245 in his second game. Harry Dreibelbiss was the runner up in individual average as he fell a point below a double century. He rolled 213 at the start, fell down in his second and doubled in his third.

As a general rule the bowling was good and the men who took part rolled at their regular gait. The leaders of the opening night have been bowling in excellent form for several weeks. The scores follow:

SPARKS FROM THE SPORT WORLD

Crane, a first base recruit, has sent his contract to Wheeling. He ran the number of contestants for the job up to four.

Ty Cobb has an eye for business. While in Cuba he gave a mogul down there a dinner which cost $30. The mogul tickled by being entertained by the noted swatsmith gave Ty a diamond valued at $200.

McGraw is said to have his mind set on carrying eight infielders this season, two for each position, leaving a veteran and an understudy at all four stations. There sure must be money in baseball in New York.

Amos Strunk, the hard-hitting outfielder on the Athletics, says he feels as stiff at the present time as a dress suit on a sailor, but hopes to have all his muscles back again in working order when he gets a chance to do business with the veterans.

Red Nelson, who showed class in his performances with the St. Louis Browns at the close of last season, is all broken up with inflammatory rheumatism which he charges to exposure while holding down a job as a freight brakeman during the winter.

Dr. Harley Parker and his new partner, Mr. Dunham, have been asked to take an interest in the Holland club of the Michigan State league and may do it. It would be a good farm for young players.

The practice obtained by the Washingtons when Walter Johnson pitches to them consists mainly of swinging at the air or popping up a few balls inside the diamond. Johnson cannot be coaxed to slow down in his delivery in practice any more than he can in actual conflict.

Magnate-Manager Joe McGinnity is going to have a color scheme for his Newark park. The stands are to be painted a silver gray with metallic brown trimmings. McGinnity says he made the selection after he had tried out a score of colors. Who would have supposed that Joe was so artistic?

A Canadian enthusiast who went to the recent National league meeting with Joe Kelley, wagered a suit of clothes with Willie Keeler that the midget outfielder would lead the Toronto club in hitting next season if he played regularly. Keeler says he'll throw in an overcoat if he happens to lead the league.

Johnny Priest, the shortstop bought by Indianapolis from the New York American club, who reported to Manager Burke Friday, is an employe of the department of agriculture at Washington. He began his baseball career in the Department league at Washington, and many of his games were played on the "White Lot," so called because it is situated behind the white house.

Charles Fanning, a pitching recruit whom the St. Louis Browns landed from the Galesburg club of the Central association, seems to possess the right handle, for he fanned 320 men in 51 games last year. Incidentally he won 30 games, lost 12 and tied three. He also possessed excellent control, passing only 58 men and hitting but seven in his 51 games. Only 74 runs were scored off him, the opposing teams registering 248 hits. The same young gentleman struck out 246 batters in 1909, leading his league that year as well as last.

WRATTEN SIGNED BY THE POTTERS

Columbus Third Baseman Will Try to Take Joe Herald's Place.

TRAINING IS OPENED

Zanesville, O., March 21.—Erve Wratten, who started his baseball career in this city, has been purchased by the local management and will play at third base instead of Joe Herold whose weakness with the bat will probably put him out of the running unless he can show that he is a better hitter than the American association purchase.

Wratten was bought from the Columbus team, and he lives at Cincinnati. There was no fault to find with his fielding, but last season he had a bad slump with the stick, and this enabled the Zanesville owners to secure his release. He hit .205 for the Senators last season.

Manager Joe Raidy figures that Wratten will hit better with the Potters and that by reason of his experience he will greatly strengthen the infield.

PLAYERS REPORT TO WHEELER.

Terre Haute Starts Practice Under Favorable Weather Conditions.

Terre Haute, Ind., March 21.—Under favorable weather conditions Manager Eddie Wheeler started practice this morning with thirty-five recruits on hand and a few more to hear from. Wes Holder, the big catcher from Paris, Ky., was the first man to arrive for the season, and men have been dropping off every train since early yesterday morning.

The local club has a number of exhibition games scheduled and Wheeler will have the advantage of about two weeks of work over all of the other managers except Aggie Grant.

FOURTEEN MEN AT EVANSVILLE.

Grant Is Looking Over the First Comers and Preparing for Game.

Evansville, Ind., March 21.—With fourteen men in line Manager Aggie Grant has opened up the training season here and is preparing to take on a few early exhibition games that he has scheduled. The fourteen men represent the early squad and the manager wants to look the players over before the full squad is on hand.

COMPTON SIGNS CONTRACT.

Old Wheeling Pitcher Will Work With the Vets This Season.

Dayton, O., March 21.—The signed contract of Pitcher Jack Compton, former Stogie, who was purchased from the Atlanta Southern league club by the Vets a few weeks ago, reached baseball headquarters this morning. Jack gave the club officials no trouble about signing. The receipt of his contract cuts the list of those outside the fold down to one. Shortstop Leonard Dobard is the only Vet who has not signed or agreed to terms.

Final papers have been signed in the matter of transferring the Dayton baseball club to Highland park, and the season of 1911 will be the last for the Vets at the old stand, Fairview.

LOOKS LIKE A BALL PLAYER.

Along with a picture of Lester Channell, the Indianapolis News prints the following:

"Outfielder Lester Channell played his initial game in an Indianapolis uniform yesterday and made a favorable impression on the spectators as to his ability as a ball player. Channell acts like a ball player, looks like one and many of the more enthusiastic fans declare he is a ball player. The ex-Highlander does everything in a left-hand way. He bats left-handed, throws left-handed, plays left field and in yesterday's contest showed a decided preference for the left garden in placing his hits. One of his hits counted for three bases and landed near the left field foul line. Channell developed great speed on the bases and it is not likely that he will suffer any ill effects from the broken leg which kept him out of the game during a part of last season."

A COLD, LAGRIPPE, THEN PNEUMONIA

—o—

Is too often the fatal sequence. Foley's Honey and Tar expels the cold, checks the lagrippe, and prevents pneumonia. It is a prompt and reliable cough medicine that contains no narcotics. "Foley's Honey and Tar is the best cough remedy I ever used as it quickly stopped a severe cough that had long troubled me," says J. W. Kuhn, Princeton, Neb. Just so quickly and surely it acts in all cases of coughs, colds, lagrippe and lung trouble. It is as safe for your children as yourself, and should be used in all cases of croup, whooping cough and measles cough. Refuse substitutes. Dreier Drug Co.

BRINKMAN GETS CONTRACT.

Will Paint Stands, Fences and Club House at Baseball Park.

A contract gor painting the stands, fences and club house at the baseball park has been let to W. E. Brinkman & Co., and Secretary Bert Dennis has been aske dto get the contractor to hustle the job along as fast as possible so that the paint will be dry by the time the men report.

RYAN AN EASY VICTIM.

Bout Stopped as McFarland Had His Man Practically Out.

Oswego, N. Y., March 21.—Packey McFarland, of Chicago, scored an easy victory over Billy Ryan, of Syracuse, in the fourth round of a scheduled ten-round bout at catch weights before the Oswego City Athletic club last night. Fight fans from all parts of Central New York to the number of 1,500 filled the theater in which the fight was held and applauded the victor.

Ryan was outclassed from the start and appeared frightened at McFarland's agility and cleverness. The Chicago man took things easy for two rounds, being content to follow Ryan about the ring and get in a few light blows. But in the third McFarland sailed in and beat Ryan to every punch and showered him with swings, jabs and uppercuts that left the Syracusan's face raw and bleeding at the bell.

REFUSED TO MAKE WEIGHT.

Abe Attell Will Not Meet Johnny Coulon for Championship.

New Orleans, La., March 21.—Abe Attell has declined to make 118 pounds ring side and as a result Manager Torchich, of the West Side Athletic club, announced today that the negotiations for a fight between Attell and Johnny Coulon for the bantamweight championship had been practically abandoned. Coulon flatly refused to concede another pound to the featherwight champion and Attell wired that he would not agree to make less than 118 ringside.

RITCHIE IS LONG ON COMEDY

Lou Ritchie, of the Chicago Cubs, is the latest baseball comedian. Richie gives a humorous description of how he has been trying to get a start in the game.

"The mortgage was due," says Lou. "Little Looie had to save the old homestead. He had tried to make an honest living, but at the tender age of 15 he threw down his trusty hoe, picked up a baseball and determined to become a white slave of the national commission. Everyone refused to take him earnestly, even himself. He saw there was no chance for him as a baseball tragedian, they were so numerous, so he jumped into the comedy line.

"Every one said: 'He's a good entertainer, even if he can't pitch.' And every batter who ever thought he could hit .300 (which includes them all) grabbed bats and hurried to welcome little Lou. He started in eastern Pennsylvania, but after a time the league asked him to quit because the batters were knocking down the fences. Finally little Looie grew desperate.

"The mortgage was about due and his dog was starving. He went back and tried the hoe again, but he had lost control. One day little Looie picked up a large round spud. It was the turning point. He shied it at a cat, and as the spud flew through the air it curved suddenly and hit the cruel monster who owned the mortgage. The next day he took his curve to Philadelphia and was signed to pitch for the Phillies and cheer up gloomy athletics who wished to leap into the Delaware river because their batting averages were not .337.

"For this they paid him enough salary to support himself in the style to which he had been accustomed and to pay the mortgage. The manager told him he couldn't pitch for sour apples, so he hunted up a sour apple tree and pitched for it part of one season.

"Finally he was traded to Boston. There were 12 or 14 other pitchers and every time poor little Lou started to pitch one of them tore the ball out of his hands and did the pitching. They said he was a comedian, both on and off the slab. That broke his tender heart. Then the peerless leader of the Chicago Cubs purchased him and permitted him to warm up almost every day and occasionally pitch a game."

FORSYTHE EATS OYSTERS TO HELP HIM HIT BIG FELLOWS

Marlin, Texas, March 21.—One of the quaintest characters and incidentally the most amusing bugs that has made a stab at a big league for many seasons is young Forsythe, who aspires to overthrow Fred Merkle, or some other star, as first baseman for the New York Giants. An idea of his eccentricities can be gleaned from the fact that for two days he ate oyster stew so as to be able to hit Matty. He believes that if he can wallop Big Six hard in the spring he can find money rolling around the streets in New York.

Forsythe is a very gullible, rawboned fellow from the west, and some of the youngsters, assisted by McGraw, have strung him along until he believes that Hans Wagner, Eagle and Ty Cobb all live on oyster diet, and, to show that he is game, he went against the special dish three times a day and paid for it out of his own pocket. This big westerner is a hard slugger naturally, and said that he was just right to slam any of Matty's curves all over the park.

Forsythe was formerly a bad man of the west and he entertained the youngsters by the hour telling about the number of notches on his gun. He arrived in Marlin two weeks ahead of McGraw or anybody, and he admitted that it took him four days to reach here. He is over six feet tall and has a total displacement of 185 pounds.

A hay he calls "Old Sal" is his constant companion, and he will not allow anybody else to touch it. While he hasn't much chance of getting a permanent job with the Giants, McGraw says that he is certainly a natural hard hitter, and the manager has to admire him for his gameness. At Dallas he made a break to get on the good side of Secretary Gray the moment Bill showed up. Forsythe's method of getting next to the money man was to slip two apples off the table and quietly sneak them into Gray's room. By two skillful maneuvers like that he succeeded in getting an advance order for $25. Half of the money, according to Beals Becker, was spent in sending away post cards to his friends in the Bush league.

Mr. Forsythe has no idea of the ethics of baseball, such as respecting the position of manager. Notwithstanding the fact that he is a bush leaguer, he looks on McGraw just the same as if he were one of the other recruits.

"Where's Johnny?" he asked of the hotel clerk one night. "Johnny!" repeated the bewildered clerk.

"Yes, Johnny McGraw. I want him to see about my laundry. It's got misplaced." About that time McGraw came up and Forsythe stated his business.

"Well, did you think I could get it?" said McGraw a little testily.

"You know me, kid," said Forsythe as he dug the manager in the ribs. "I know who is in charge of this roundup." And the funny part of it is that McGraw helped him search for it while the other young players looked in with their mouths agape at the westerner's audacity.

Over at Fort Worth a lariat-throwing contest is to be staged and Forsythe has put in his entry. He begged McGraw and his team mates to let him practice roping the players as they ran around the bases in the morning workouts.

TELEGRAPHIC SPORT TABLOIDS.

Lexington, Ky., March 21.—J. Hart Brown's promising colt, B. G. Milliman, ran away and injured himself so badly it had to be killed. The animal was a 2-year-old and valued at $5,000.

* * *

Oswego, N. Y., March 21.—Billy Ryan of Syracuse, was saved from a knockout at the hands of Packey McFarland of Chicago, in the fourth round of a scheduled ten-round bout before the Oswego Athletic club here last night.

McFarland had Ryan helpless and bleeding when the Syracusan's seconds threw the sponge into the ring. Ryan was outclassed from the start and landed but few blows in the fight. Packey took two rounds to size up his opponent and finished him in the third and fourth.

* * *

Oshkosh, Wis., March 21.—The state bowling tournament ended last night after two weeks' rolling and the final day saw a change in the singles, which landed W. C. Wegner of Milwaukee in the lead with 709, one of the highest scores in any tournament for years in any part of the United States.

* * *

Athens, Ga., March 21.—Charles Hemphill, Jim Vaughn and Harry Welter arrived in Athens this morning after two nights and a day of riding from Hot Springs, Va. The trio reported in good condition, and as a result Manager Hal Chase is more confident than ever that the Yankees will finish one, two, three.

Bowie, Tex., March 21.—This city's enterprise was shown by erecting a stand over night to entertain one division of the White Sox who played here at the solicitation of "Tex" Jones, a recruit on the club. A woman with a forty-four revolver stood guard at the left field fence to prevent any of the players from entering her peach orchard to retrieve lost balls. Bowie made two scores, while the Sox tallied 21.

* * *

Chicago, Ill., March 21.—Jay Cook, a Cub recruit pitcher, who insisted on a clause in his contract whereby he would not be compelled to play baseball on Sundays, is on the market.

A wire received yesterday by Dave Dreham, Peoria magnate, from President Murphy, asked the Three-Eyes mogul if he wanted the minister's son. Cook was drafted from Peoria and according to rule 42 of the national commission agreement Mr. Murphy was compelled to ask Peoria if it cared for the return of Cook before he was disposed of elsewhere.

It is probable Cook will go back to Peoria, for Dreham is pretty sweet on him. If Dreham cannot find room for the youngster, the Cubs then will be at liberty to dispose of him elsewhere.

FIGHT A COLD FAKE.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 21.—In what appeared to be a cold fake, both to spectators and newspaper men "Kid" McCoy last night won a popular decision over Jack Fitzgerald, of this city, by a narrow margin.

The Beat of the Year

By Robert Livingston Beecher

COPYRIGHT, 1909, BY THE PEARSON PUBLISHING CO.

"That settles it," he said, in a voice which wavered slightly. "We'd nothing to show before that that body was the body of Joyce. He might have had a row with Greening and still be living. I knew he wasn't, but I hadn't proved it. This settles it."

He held out his hand and McGinnis saw a piece of marking tape on which was stitched in red thread a man's full name.

"He cut it off the undershirt," said Bruce. "I saw the shirt in the undertaker's. This fits the hole in it." There was a noise at the door. McGinnis grabbed a small brass vase and hid behind some heavy curtains. Bruce went behind the bathroom door.

An interval of absolute silence. Then a key clicked in the hall door and Bruce knew that it had swung open.

For a moment, that was all. Then the door shut and the lock turned.

Another minute went by. Bruce knew that eyes were looking narrowly about the main room.

Had something already awakened suspicions? Bruce started. What had McGinnis and he done with their hats? In the struggle with the janitor both had been knocked off. Where were they?

A cold chill began to creep up the listening man's spine. Then he smiled in spite of himself. It had occurred to him for an instant to wonder what McGinnis was doing behind those velvet curtains.

He strained his ears but could detect no stealthy footstep. Then, not three feet away from him as he peered through the crack of the door, a white face slid into the light. A man was standing in front of the nearer window looking into the bedroom!

For an instant the man in hiding forgot that, with the dark background, those searching eyes could not see him through the crack. He made ready for a rush. Then he remembered and his tense muscles relaxed.

After a moment, the ghastly face turned toward the bathroom and the figure gave a start. The eyes had seen the man on the floor!

The figure moved noiselessly over to the bathroom door and stopped on the threshold. Then it took a step inside. Then it wheeled around and sprang back into the main room. Something flashed in the figure's right hand.

"Come out of there!"

The voice was hoarse. Through it ran what seemed to be jarring notes of surprise, realized expectation, relief, and fear. Bruce saw the eyes were not looking in his direction.

"Come out of there," the voice repeated. "I know you're there. I can see the curtains move. I'll shoot if you don't step out."

The figure moved toward the center of the main room and, as it did so, Bruce slipped out from his hiding place and tiptoed to the bedroom door. The figure was standing behind the desk with its right hand extended toward the curtains.

As Bruce gathered himself together for a supreme effort, the curtains parted violently and a streak of yellow light shot out and struck the figure on the left shoulder. The figure reeled backward, a shot rang out, and Bruce launched himself into the air. At the same instant, another body hurled itself across the desk from the far side and four hands seized and gripped a body.

When Bruce rose to his feet, his foot struck a brass vase. He picked it up and placed it on the window sill nearest the bathroom.

"Are you hurt, McGinnis?" he asked, anxiously.

"No," said the Irishman.

"You're a pretty good shot yourself," continued the younger man, picking up the revolver and slipping it into his pocket.

The Irishman did not reply. He was looking down at the bound and gagged man on the floor. The captive's eyes looked from one captor to the other. McGinnis was standing near the man's head and the latter could not see him distinctly.

"He wants to say something," said McGinnis. "Shall I loosen that cloth?"

"Wait a minute," replied Bruce, in a low tone.

The younger man listened painfully for a minute. The house was still quiet.

Then he bent down, crept over to one of the windows, and slowly raised his eyes above the sill. Then he ducked suddenly.

"Keep the gag on," he whispered. "There's a cop in the middle of the street looking up at this house!"

The man at McGinnis's feet heard the words and into his eyes came a look of inexpressible relief. McGinnis saw the look but could not comprehend it.

Bruce, crouching down below the window sill, waited for a time and then crept on his hands and knees into the bedroom, where he rose to his feet and peered out around one side of the drawn window curtain. After a considerable interval, he reappeared.

"It's all right," he said. "The cop's given it up as a bad job. He's a block away. See what our man has to say."

McGinnis loosened the silken scarf over the captive's mouth and the man wet his lips with his tongue.

"Well, what are you waiting for?" he said, at last. "You won't find much here, but what there is you're welcome to. I've got a few bills in my purse and some silver in my trousers."

Bruce and McGinnis looked at each other with a curious smile. The captive saw the look and the smile and his eyes took on a new expression. He wiped his lips again.

"Well, what are you staring at?" he said, thickly. "Aren't you burglars?"

"Not by a dom sight," said McGinnis.

"What are you, then?"—the man on the floor hesitated—"Detectives?"

"No," said Bruce.

ONLY WOMAN GUIDE PREFERS LOG CABIN TO PALACE IN CITY

Mrs. McDonald, at New York Show, Says City is Colder Than Maine Woods—Young and Pretty, She is Expert With Rifle—In Zero Weather She and Husband Slew Five Bears a Few Days Ago.

MRS. CHARLES E. McDONALD

New York, March 21.—"New York? Yes, it's a wonderful city, far beyond anything I have ever pictured in my mind, but I wouldn't live here if you gave me all its wealth. I'd a thousand times rather have a nook in a little log cabin in my native Maine woods than the grandest apartment in the Waldorf or your Fifth avenue palaces. I'd die if I had to live here."

This is the declaration of Mrs. Charles E. McDonald, of Sherman, Me., the only certified woman guide in the Pine Tree state.

With a tall, bronzed husband, who is known to many nimrods of New York, she is here for the Sportsmen's show, which opens today at Madison Square garden. It is Mrs. McDonald's first visit to New York—in fact it is her first visit to any big city. But, despite the fact that she has passed most of her life—she is only twenty-five years old and as charming and attractive as she is clever with rod or gun—in the solitudes of the great Maine woods, she is not of the type one expects to find two score miles from a railroad track.

Fit Anywhere.

She would fit in easily in any assemblage in "Pa Knickerbocker's" big city. The only thing that might distinguish her as not of New York is her silence—but that is of the woods. Guides are never voluble. With the exception of the open hunting season, when the city sports are in the camp, Mrs. McDonald has no opportunities for gossip. And when her stalwart husband goes trapping the only one she has to converse with and tell her troubles, the few that she has—for Mrs. McDonald is a charter member of the "Don't Worry Club"—is "Midget," her wonderful horse.

But when she tells you about "Midget," versed in woods and the trails better than a human being, Mrs. McDonald says, then she grows eloquent. And you should see those clear brown eyes sparkle when she describes how she and Charley, her husband, came upon five black bears only a few days ago, as they were tramping through the snow about five miles from camp.

"We heard a scraping sound as of something scraping bark," she said. Her keen ears were the first to catch the noise.

Fifteen Below Zero.

"What's that?" I said to Charley. "We stopped to listen. But all was silent, save the occasional crackling of the trees in the cold. It was fifteen below zero. Then we heard it again. It came from behind the shoulder of a small, heavily timbered hill.

"'Oh, that's only a squirrel,' said Charley, and he started ahead. I didn't think it was. And it wasn't. You were fooled that time, weren't you, boy?"—and Charley, with an embarrassed grin, admitted that he was.

"Well, just as we turned that hill," Mrs. McDonald continued, "we came upon five big black bears. Bang, bang, bang, bang went our guns"—the pretty guide was now all animation. "We got two of them and wounded a third. The others scampered off into the forest. Then Charley gave his wood call—he can talk like a bear, you know—and two of them came loping back.

Curiosity Costs Life.

"Bears are awfully curious, more so than women, and—well, we got those two. Oh, I wish I were back there now," she added, wistfully, as she glanced out on the slushy streets of New York.

"It's cold here," she said. "I haven't been able to get warm since I arrived here. And the hotel rooms are so hot. It stifles me. I'll be glad when we get home."

"Then you don't like New York?" asked the native.

"No"—this with emphasis. "Not from the little I've seen. People rush about here like mad. They run around, bustle and hurry, crowd and push just like the waters tumbling over the rocks at Grand Falls. It isn't living.

"Rush, Gobble and Git."

One would think that they had but a few hours of life and they had to do a million things in that time. I saw a man racing madly after a car today. There was one just behind him, at his heels, but he had to get the one ahead. In the restaurants it's the same way—rush in, gobble up a meal and rush out. No, New York and I would never agree."

"Have you been in the subway?" she was asked.

"Yes, for one block. Then I made Charley take me out. Why, they crowd people in like cattle. Why and how do you New Yorkers stand it?"

Sherman, a village up in the northeast part of Aristook county, near the Canadian border line, has been her metropolis, and even visits to that place were rare. In fact, she only comes to "town," meaning Sherman, once or twice a year. For the rest of the time she is in her husband's camp, the main lodge of which consists of a large lounging room, with a great stone fireplace, dining room and kitchen. Mrs. McDonald has charge of this camp and would not exchange it for the finest mansion in the world.

Pine Tree Wilderness.

It has an elevation of 1,200 feet, and is on the east branch of the Penobscot river, at the Bowlan Falls rapids. In the distance, toward the northwest, loom the Traveler mountains. Here in the pine tree wilderness, abounding in game and with well stocked lakes and streams, is what Mrs. McDonald calls "home." She loves it all passionately and does not mind saying so. She and her husband grew up together and he it was who taught her the use of the gun and rod.

Today he admits that she is more expert in both than he is. "And she knows the woods better than I do," he says.

"Aren't you ever lonesome?" she was asked.

Wishes for Horse.

"Not half as lonesome as I would be in this crowded city," she replied. "I have my hooks and Midget—oh! I do wish I had Midget here," she added. "I wouldn't mind it so much. They tell me your Central park is fine to ride in. And, and—well, we'll be back home this time next week, won't we, Charley?" and the latter nodded his head.

"Will you come back for next year's show?" she was asked.

"No, sir, never again," said Maine's only woman guide. "There's no place like home for me."

WARNING TO RAILROAD MEN.

Look out for severe and even dangerous kidney and bladder trouble resulting from years of railroading. Geo. E. Bell, 639 Third St., Fort Wayne, Ind., was many years a conductor on the Nickel Plate. He says: "Twenty years of railroading left my kidneys in terrible condition. There was a continual pain across my back and hips and my kidneys gave me much distress, and the action of my bladder was frequent and most painful. I got a supply of Foley Kidney Pills and the first bottle made a wonderful improvement and four bottles cured me completely. Since being cured I have recommended Foley Kidney Pills to many of my railroad friends." Dreier Drug Co.

HAT WEARING AND DRAFTS.

Drafts in parliament are credited with partial responsibility for members' custom of wearing their hats, which some have regarded as inherited from the old open air moots. But privilege and tradition are factors also. When, fourteen years ago, it was proposed at the London county council to start hat wearing because of the drafts at Spring Gardens, the council decided not to "ape the manners of parliament." Lord Onslow nobly declined to make a party question of "a natural infirmity like a bald head." Formerly fear of drafts led to the wearing of hats even at dinner, though it was bad manners to put on your hat until your host did. Pepys records catching a bad cold "by flinging off my hat at dinner, sitting with the wind in my neck."—London Chronicle.

NO NEED TO STOP WORK.

When your doctor orders you to stop work, it staggers you. "I can't," you say. You know you are weak, run-down and failing in health, day by day, but you must work as long as you can stand. What you need is Electric Bitters to give tone, strength and vigor to your system, to prevent breakdown and build you up. Don't be weak, sickly or ailing when Electric Bitters will benefit you from the first dose. Thousands bless them for their glorious health and strength. Try them. Every bottle is guaranteed to satisfy. Only 50c at all druggists.

VEGETARIANS.

An old doctor friend of mine who loses money by giving a lot of his time to one of the big hospitals, where he is ranking surgeon, heard my story of the vegetarian dogs. "It's worse," he said, "with my own patients. They've got the belief that meat is bad for them, and yet it is true that most of my patients who have rheumatism were never much as meat eaters. I have men who eat too much meat, and need a bit of toning once in awhile, because they don't take enough exercise, or drink a bit too much, but my experience of forty years leads me to think that there isn't much in this theory that meat and rheumatism are generally twins. I have a baked apple, a bit of toast and a cup of tea in the morning, but in my other two meals I always have meat, unless I'm sure I can get fish that is really fresh. Vegetarianism is good for people who think it's good for them."—New York Press.

Many elderly people have found in Foley's Kidney Remedy a quick relief and permanent benefit from kidney and bladder ailments and from annoying urinary irregularities due to advancing years. Isaac N. One Way of Saving a Baby—Free to Try

The mother does not live who would not do all in her power to keep her child healthy, but often she does not know how. So when a doctor of standing points the way all can afford to listen.

It is an accepted fact that nine out of ten of the troubles of infants and children is intestinal. You notice it by the fact that the child is constipated, it belches, is peevish and cries. Don't give a remedy that contains an opiate, because the child will get in the habit of needing it, and don't become alarmed and run at once for a doctor.

Try a scientific laxative first. Give a small dose of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, the remedy that is intended for the use of children. It is mild, gentle and non-griping. The remedy is absolutely pure and is guaranteed in every particular. Mrs. Toomey of Emingsville, Pa., and Mrs. Fred Croma of Alanson, Mich. never give their children anything else. These are only a few among thousands of women.

You can buy a fifty cent or one dollar bottle of any nearby druggist, for they have all sold it for a generation, but if you want to test it on your child first send your address to Dr. Caldwell and he will cheerfully send you a free sample bottle.

Dr. Caldwell does not feel that the purchase of his remedy ends his obligation. He has specialized in stomach, liver and bowel diseases for over forty years and will be pleased to give the reader any advice on the subject free of charge. All are welcome to write him. # HONOR BESTOWED ON OLD FRIEND

Pennsy Employes Give Mr. McKim China and Glassware.

GOULD STAYS WITH THE C., H. & D.

Is Appointed Assistant to General Manager W. C. Loree.

A committee representing each of the departments of the Pennsylvania called upon J. B. McKim, late superintendent of the Western division of the Pennsylvania, last night and in behalf of the men they represented, presented him with magnificent tokens of the high esteem in which he is held. The presents were a beautiful set of Haviland China dishes, bearing the monogram "J. B. M." and a complete set of Belgium rock crystal glassware. The personnel of the committee is as follows, each long associated with Mr. McKim in railway work: Joseph P. Morgan, Dr. C. B. Stemen, Dr. A. H. Macbeth, Edward Bradley, Michael Shea, E. H. Kirkland, J. F. Patterson, T. P. McArdle, Robert Cowen, B. F. Sarver, George Miller, C. E. Misner, A. J. Zurbuch, and C. B. Bowen. Mr. McKim was taken by surprise, but he cordially received the committee and after the greetings, the presentations were made. The story is best told in the speeches of the men and the recipient of the honors.

In introducing Edward Bradley, who made the presentation speech, Conductor J. P. Morgan prefaced the introduction with the following: "Mr. McKim, you need no introduction to the delegation of men as all the faces are very familiar to you. We come here this evening not to discuss railroad affairs, but simply to bring you a message that I know will do your heart good. One of the sweetest things in life is to know that you have the good will and staunch friendship and highest esteem of your fellowmen."

Mr. Bradley said: "Mr. McKim, your retirement as superintendent of the western division of the Pennsylvania company, gives us, as employes, an opportunity to express the esteem and friendship in which we have always held you during your administration. It is my pleasure to act as spokesman on this occasion. I wish that I had the power of speech to truthfully express the sentiments of every man who has had the good fortune to be in the company's employment on your division. Such expressions would be the grandest compliment that could be paid to any man by those who have been associated with him.

"We first wish to express our feeling of loss because of your retirement. As employes we can fully appreciate your feeling of regret in being compelled, because of your ill health, to leave the work in which you have been so earnest and successful during your entire manhood. We, therefore, want you to feel our sincere sympathy because of your ill health and express the hope that a short rest from your accustomed labors may restore you to your former physical vigor.

"As a token of our friendship to you we wish to present these gifts and trust that they may add to the comfort and pleasure of your retirement.

"Above all we want you to know that you have the loyal friendship of every man among us and our sincere wish that your former health and vigor may be again restored."

In a short impromptu address Dr. C. B. Stemen, chief surgeon of the Pennsylvania company, said: "I am certainly pleased and gratified to be here with you tonight. I have found in my thirty-five years in service with railroad employes, a certain loyalty and devotion which exists in railroad men more prominent than in any other class of men, a loyalty to one another as well as to the officials. No man was ever so devoted to the employes as Mr. McKim."

In response to the address, Mr. McKim said in part: "It is certainly a great gratification to me to hear and feel the expressions of friendship and gratitude you offer. The gifts you bring are beautiful, but the friendship is grand and I shall always remember this occasion with much appreciation."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

E. A. GOULD REMAINS.

Change in C., H. & D. Does Not Reach Him

The absorption of the C., H. & D. by the Baltimore and Ohio has not resulted in loss of position to E. A. Gould, who has been retained as the assistant of General Manager W. C. Loree. Mr. Gould has many friends in Fort Wayne who will be pleased to learn that he has not suffered in the "shake up." Yesterday Vice President George F. Randolph, of the B. & O., announced that the freight and passenger departments of the Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern and the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton roads are to be consolidated.

The position of general traffic manager of the C., H. & D. has been abolished and C. L. Thomas was appointed freight traffic manager of the two roads. O. P. McCarty, general passenger agent of the B. & O. S. W., will also have that title on the C., H. & D., vice W. B. Calloway, assigned to other duties.

In addition to his present duties, S. T. McLaughlin will become general freight agent of the C., H. & D., vice J. W. Allison, assigned to other duties.

Archibald Fries will be assistant general freight agent of the B. & O. S. W. and C., H. & D., vice Stuart A. Allen, who becomes general agent of the freight department of the two roads.

J. W. Allison, former general freight agent of the C., H. & D., becomes freight tariff agent of the two companies.

W. B. Calloway, former general passenger agent of the C., H. & D., is appointed assistant general passenger agent of the two roads.

WABASH MEN WILL DANCE.

The Allied Crafts organization of the Wabash railroad has made all preparations for a big dance and reception to be held at Minnet hall May 3rd. The announcement was made public yesterday by the committee in charge of the preparations. Undoubtedly the dance will be the largest ever held in this city, if the present indication can be accepted as a rule. The committee intends having the grand lodge officers here and the gathering will be the greatest ever held under the auspices of any of the Crafts' lodges. The committee on arrangements is composed of the following members: L. D. Miller, chairman, and Ben Singleton, of the machinists; F. J. Schwanz and J. W. Loney, of the pipefitters; C. W. Koenig and George Smith, of the blacksmiths, and Thomas Morris and Edward Siebold, of the boilermakers. The Allied Crafts organization includes practically every employe at the local shops of the Wabash railroad with the exception of the laboring gang men.

TO BE CLOSED TOMORROW.

Pennsylvania Shops to Have Short Suspension.

Bulletins announcing the suspension of operations for tomorrow were posted in the Pennsylvania shops this morning. The temporary suspension, it is understood, is necessary to keep expenses within the figure set for the shops during March. There is also no great demand for work, as there are a number of "white leaded" engines on the storage tracks east of the round house, which can be drawn upon at any time for service on the road. It is said that there is a slight improvement in the movement of freight over the line, but it is still short of normal.

AMERICAN RAILWAY ENGINEERS

Association is Holding Annual Convention.

Division Engineer F. M. Graham is in Chicago today, attending the convention of the American Railway Engineering and Maintenance of Way association and a meeting also of division engineers from other branches of the Pennsylvania system. Maintenance of way signal officials from all over the country are attending the meeting. They are also taking advantage of the opportunity to "take in" the third annual exhibition of railway appliances now in progress in Chicago, which is very interesting and instructive to the men engaged in railway work.

PROGRAM IS COMPLETE.

The vaudeville committee of the Electro-Technic club had a meeting last night and made final arrangements for the vaudeville show, which will be given in the Majestic April 5. Garland Obenchain was selected as stage director, R. O. Orff to have charge of the printing and sale of the tickets and C. D. Wheeler as musical director. The program of the entertainment is practically complete, with eight acts. There will be an exhibition drill by the Boy Scouts; a farce by the Electro-Technic ball club; the Electro-Technic quartet; the Electro-Technic Mandolin club with eight pieces; a two-man dance and song sketch; a two-man tumbling act; a monologue specialist and some selections by the Electro-Technic band, with twenty-six pieces.

CHARLEY ROESCH PROMOTED.

Charles E. Roesch has been transferred from the office of the Fort Wayne Electric works to Chicago to take a more responsible position in the company's sales offices in that city, a very good promotion for the young man. Last night he was the guest of honor at a dinner party at the Wayne club, the other participants being fifteen of his associates at the offices of the Electric company. The affair was a surprise to Mr. Roesch, who was picked up on the streets by one of the boys and hustled into the midst of the company at the Wayne. Mr. Roesch has "made good" with the Fort Wayne Electric company, in whose service he has been five years.

BIG ENGINE RUNS HOT.

No. 1120, a Mallet articulated compound locomotive, built by the Baldwin works for the National Railway of Mexico, "ran hot" while coming from Crestline to Fort Wayne and was taken into the Pennsylvania round house to have its driver journal trued up and bet new boxing. This engine has an immense boiler and two pairs of cylinders, each attached to separate drivers and is practically two engines in one. It will get the necessary repairs today and tonight resume its journey to Mexico.

TO GO ON A RANCH.

J. H. Crill, for some time employed as a boilermaker's helper in the Pennsylvania shops, will be a ranchman in Idaho soon. He resigned this morning and will leave for Idaho to join his brother, who has been on a ranch in that country for some time. J. W. Oetting and E. J. McGrath, also boilermaker helpers, resigned this morning, the former to go back on the farm for the summer, at least.

TWO MINOR ACCIDENTS.

The third finger of the left hand of J. P. Labbe was badly crushed this morning when a misdirected blow landed a heavy hammer upon it. Yesterday H. Henschen had one of his wrists sprained when he fell from an engine he had been working on. Both men are employed in the pipefitting department of the Pennsylvania shops.

CONTRACT IS AWARDED.

The Pennsylvania Railroad company has awarded a contract for a new ore-unloading plant to be erected on the lake front docks under construction at Cleveland. The plant will consist of four seventeen-ton unloaders and a fifteen-ton ore bridge. The new unloaders will be the largest on the lakes.

AUSTRUP REPORTS TOMORROW.

Fred Austrup, foreman of car inspectors and repairmen at the Wabash yards, resumes that duty tomorrow, after a month's absence. He was in the Peru hospital for the double surgical operation of relief from appendicitis and rupture and is rapidly recovering.

HOMESEEKERS' BUSINESS LIGHT

This was "homeseekers'" day with the railways inthis territory, but no unusual activity developed at the several depots. In fact, the agents report a very light business, the smallest for several months. The colonist rates have injured the homeseekers' business.

FROM SHOP TO POSTOFFICE.

J. C. H. Reuille, a machinist helper, under instruction at the Pennsylvania shous, resigned this morning to take a position in the Fort Wayne postoffice. He was one of the successful members of the last class up for examination by the postal department.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

Machinist Felix Logan, of the Pennsylvania, is kept from work by sickness in his family.

O. P. Smith has returned from a pleasure trip to Chicago and is at work in the Pennsylvania shops again.

Supt. W. M. Wardrop, of the Pennsylvania, attended a meeting of other railway officials in Pittsburg yesterday, returning here this morning.

J. H. Beltzell, a shop carpenter, has reported for work at the Pennsylvania shops after an absence of several days on account of an injured hand.

John J. Lynch, a Pennsylvania pipefitter, who had a thumb badly injured two weeks ago, is improving and expects to resume work next Thursday.

H. L. Collis, a gang foreman in the Pennsylvania erecting shop, left this afternoon for Altoona, where his grandmother is said to be dangerously ill.

W. J. McHale, a fine welder, who came here six months ago to take a position with the Pennsylvania shops, has returned to his old home in Pittsburg.

Trainmaster W. D. Stearns, of the Lake Shore, was in the city Sunday looking after affairs for the company. He also held a class in book of rules with the trainmen.

Two coal dock car bodies built at the Bass boiler shop for the Pennsylvania for use at the docks in Conway, were loaded for shipment today. They made a car load.

J. A. Colchin, a pipefitter at the Pennsylvania shops, went to Bucyrus this morning to place some conduits in position. Some improvements are in progress at that place.

W. C. Tegtmeyer, F. A. Byanshie, Nicholas Martz, H. C. Walda, C. H. Becker, J. H. Lange, F. E. Herber and J. Horstmeyer, Pennsylvania shopmen, are sick and off duty.

Gang Foreman J. J. Houlihan, of the erecting department of the Wabash shops, is a victim of the grip today and failed to show up for work this morning.

Eight hours per day will be the working schedule at the Wabash shops for awhile. The order was put into effect yesterday. The men have been working nine hours per day.

Boilermaker A. W. Harman, sick three weeks, resumed work in the Pennsylvania shops this morning. J. P. Teagarden, of the same shop, also resumed work after being sick three weeks.

The citizens of Wabash are offering a bonus of $40,000 to the Automobile Engine works of Kankakee for establishing a plant in Wabash. Over $30,000 of the sum has already been subscribed.

Mrs. Schramm, who has been very sick, is now able to sit up and will soon be as well as usual. Her husband, Frank Schramm, janitor at the Pennsylvania round house office, has also been sick, but is at work again.

During the high winds one day last week the roof was torn off a car in a Wabash freight train as it was entering Decatur, Ill. Two tramps who were stealing a ride in the car were carried out the door and landed on the ground by the winds, but escaped injury.

The Louisville and Nashville company has purchased the Mountain Central road, running from Lexington, Ky., to Campton, thirteen miles, and will extend it to Pikeville, through Hazel Green. This road is only three feet wide, has four locomotives, three passenger cars and forty freight cars.

The Morgantown and Kingwood road announces that it will rebuild the shops at Morgantown that were destroyed by fire a year ago, making the new shops larger than were the old. This is a small road running into coal fields and may be used by the Western Maryland in its proposed line down the Cheat river.

SOMBER DRESS FOR GOLD WORK.

Stray Particles of Precious Metal Can't Be Seen on Light Suits.

Light suits of clothes are not favored in factories where work is done on gold. In fact, in many such factories a dark suit of clothes is absolutely required and even a light waistcoat may lose a man a job. The reason for this is that any stray grains of gold that may get on the clothing can easily be caught on a dark suit, while they might get away from the establishment if light clothing were worn.

That such a rule was enforced among gold workers one man learned recently when a Bohemian gold beater applied to him for a helping hand. The Bohemian said that he had only recently come to this country, that he had had a chance to obtain a good job at his trade, but that the place had been refused him because he turned up with a light coat and waistcoat on, and they were the only clothes he had.

The man whom he approached was struck by the story and offered to help him out if it proved true. He went to a downtown factory with him and found out that the man could have the job if he presented himself within an hour with the proper clothes on. Two dollars enabled the man to rig himself out in the dark coat and waistcoat to go with his dark trousers, and, sure enough, he got the job.

"You may think this strange," said the man at the factory, "but it means quite a little to us. Every man's clothing is carefully examined when he leaves here at night, and the gold brushed off whenever we see any on his clothing. It is impossible to hide even tiny grains on a dark background; but take a mixed or a light suit and we might easily lose quite an amount of gold."—New York Sun.

CARUSO FOUND A FRIEND.

Scotti, Who Had a Cold, Had to Talk Whispers, Too.

(New York Times.)

Caruso, since his return from Atlantic City, has been sitting daily in the vestibule of the Hotel Knickerbocker speaking to his friends in almost inaudible whispers. His voice has not yet come back, but he has hopes. Scotti went up to Caruso recently and commenced a conversation in the same tones that the famous tenor had adopted. At first those standing around imagined that Scotti was imitating his friend to cheer him up, but later it was discovered that the barytone had contracted a cold and had just returned from the doctor's who had told him to whisper and not talk.

Toscanini, the conductor, who is somewhat short in stature, came in and tried to enjoy the conversation with the two singers, but it was a great strain, as he had to stand on tiptoe and put his hand to his ear to catch what they said. Then Caruso sat down to make the work easier for Toscanini, and Scotti bent over to him when he spoke.

Mme. Aida stopped on her way to the restaurant and spoke a few kind words to the sufferers and walked away after they had whispered their thanks for her sympathetic inquiries.

DOWN AGAIN GO HOG PRICES

Take a Tumble of Ten Cents —Top Grades Now Quoted at $6.80.

LOWEST FOR YEARS

Hogs are on the toboggan again. They have taken another tumble. Late Monday the price fell ten cents on a hundred, the top price going down to $6.80, which is the lowest mark the porkers have been at for the last two years. The receipts at the packing houses are light and the market is weak. At the opening Tuesday the prices were: Heavies, 150 to 200 lbs., $6.80; lights, 125 to 140 lbs., $6.60; extra heavies, 220 to 300 lbs., $6.40.

While the local Barr street market today showed increased activity in the produce line, there was not very much doing. More farmers were in the city than for several days, but the number was not large. The open, bright weather is expected to bring increased supplies of butter and eggs. Prices remain practically as they have been for the last several days.

Grain receipts were light Monday and Tuesday. Wheat is 85c, oats 29c and corn 40@45c. Hay prices remain firm.

Chicago Market.

Chicago, Ill., March 21.—Ideal weather and lower cables eased the wheat market today. Showers in Kansas and predictions of others throughout the greater part of the winter crop belt gave added cause for sentiment in favor of the bears. Reason for the weakness reported from Europe was found in pressure to sell Argentine cargoes and in expected heavy shipments from Indiana. Cash demand here continued to drag. The opening for the option list was a shade to ¼@⅜c down. May started at 90¾@91c, a loss of a sixteenth to ¼@⅝c and fell to 90⅛c.

Local traders were free sellers of corn. The seaboard was said to be overloaded with the cereal. May opened a shade off at 4c, touched 48⅞c and reacted to 49⅛c.

Under fair offerings oats weakened a little, influenced by wheat and corn. May at the outset was a sixteenth to ⅛c lower at 31⅛@31¼c, but rallied to 31¼c. There was an active trade in provisions, with prices rising on account of an advance in the hog market. First sales of products showed a rise of 2½c to 25c, with the May delivery at $16.82½ for pork, $8.82½ to $8.90 for lard and $9.30 to $9.45 for ribs.

STOCKS AND BONDS.

The Day on Wall Street.

New York, March 21.—There were few changes of consequence at the opening of the stock market today, trading being dull and barely steady. Interborough-Metropolitan preferred and International Harvester gained ¾. Texas & Pacific ⅝ and Utah Copper ½. National Railways of Mexico second preferred lost ⅝ and Southern Pacific ⅝.

Railroad stocks were rather heavy in the early dealings, but their decline was in a measure offset by improvements in some of the industrials. North American and Sears-Roebuck gained 1½, United States Rubber 1¾, Minneapolis & St. Louis preferred 1½ and Colorado Fuel, National Biscuit and Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis 1¼.

Sales of stock, which were prominent in yesterday's advance made the market heavy during the morning. Short selling by traders who believed the advance had proceeded as far as could be expected at present, increased the pressure on the standard stocks. Operators on the long side turned to some of the less active industrials and met with better success in that quarter, advancing prices of a number of these stocks sharply. Toward midday a jump in Missouri Pacific to 1¼ above yesterday's close attracted some attention, owing to the directors' meeting to be held later in the day when the new interests in the property are expected to take a hand in the election of officers. Bonds were steady.

Prices steadied at about the low level of the forenoon, but there was little stock market.

EXCITING RUN-AWAY.

Nag Frightens at Auto—Occupants of Buggy Receive Inuries.

Warren, Ind., March 21.—Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Sheets, living near Barbers Mill, are suffering from serious injuries received in a runaway, which occurred just a short distance from this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Sheets were returning to their home from a visit with relatives in Warren and just as they reached the corporation line an automobile driven by a young man by the name of Bonham frightened the horse. The animal turned, throwing the rig over and Mr. and Mrs. Sheets into the roadway.

The automobile was quickly stopped and the occupants accompanied the couple to the office of Dr. Sprowl, where their injuries were dressed. Mr. Sheets suffered a broken arm and several ribs, which made his condition for a time quite serious. Mrs. Sheets had her left wrist fractured and dislocated in the fall from the rig. Although their injuries were painful it is not thought they will result seriously.

Women Won't Stand for Catarrh

They Have More Patience Than Men and They Know That Hyomei Will Cure Catarrh if Used Regularly.

How many women of refinement do you see parading disgusting symptoms of catarrh before the world?

Not one in a thousand.

Women have patience; a great deal more of it than men. Most of them know that HYOMEI will banish catarrh if used regularly and they use it regularly because they realize what a genuine blessing it is to be rid of such a vile disease as catarrh.

People don't contract catarrh in a day; they can't expect to get rid of it in a day.

If you really want to try to free yourself from the power of persistent devilish catarrh microbes get a HYOMEI outfit today and breathe HYOMEI regularly.

There is no stomach dosing; the directions are simple and easily followed, a complete HYOMEI outfit including pocket inhaler costs $1.00, extra bottles of HYOMEI if afterward needed cost 50 cents at Meyer Bros. Co. and druggists everywhere. Guaranteed for catarrh, coughs, colds, asthma. Mail orders filled, charges prepaid by Booth's Hyomei Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Booklet on catarrh free.

MAKE QUEER DISCOVERY.

Columbia City Men Find Cases Full of "Nighties" and Champagne.

Columbia City, Ind., March 21.—George Pritchard, the Vandalia watchman on Line street and Ross Weston, while taking a walk Sunday morning over the former site of the Reid & Murdock pickle plant were considerably surprised to find two fine alligator valises buried in an old ash pile. They at once began to uncover their findings and soon discovered that the valuable leather valises were badly rotted, and the contents of one which was a dozen of ladies' fine night robes, were practically of no value on account of being buried in the bed of lye. The other grip contained four bottles of fine imported champagne, which was not affected by the ashes.

When the discovery was first made, it was thought some clue to a depredation or robbery had been unraveled, but after inquiry it was believed that the goods were some taken from a through car that was left on a local siding about a year ago, and was robbed while it ws waiting to have a draw bar repaired.

The suspected robber of the freight car was thought to have been killed at Gary the day after the theft of the car in this city and it is probable that the find will amount to but little.

Largest line of automobile gauntlets in the city at the Patterson-Fletcher Co. $1.50 to $4.

ONLY PLACE OF ITS KIND.

Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer, of Boston, and Lancaster, has been giving winter vacations for tired women in one of the houses on her large estate in Lancaster. For years she has cared for women ill or broken down by overwork in summer. "Good Rest," the vacation home, is a structure of colonial type, more than one hundred years old, and is one of the most attractive in Lancaster.

"The idea of keeping the house open in the winter is a new thing," said Miss Abbie Nichols, who manages the home for Mrs. Thayer. "It seems, however, to be a success. Many come here, and derive the same benefit that is to be had here in the summer. They take long walks in the snow, or go snowshoeing. Sleighing is another form of amusement. We have a horse here belonging to the place, and he helps us enjoy things.

"'Good Rest' is, I think, about the only place of its sort in the country. It is the only place I have ever heard of where a girl can go and spend her summer vacation free of charge."—New York Herald.
